III. CONTENT (Sequencing Content)	Effective Communication as a Core Interpersonal Skill Applying Interpersonal Effectiveness at Home, School, and Community in the Philippine Context Effective Communication A. Verbal (language, clear messaging, mutual respect, negotiating) B. Nonverbal (sensitivity to the needs of others, recognizing social cues)
	a. Explain interpersonal effectiveness at home, school, and the community in the Philippine context. b. Identify situations where effective communication skills enhance interpersonal effectiveness at home, school, and community in the Philippine context. c. Utilize effective communication skills, both verbal and nonverbal, to achieve specific objectives in social situations.
IV. PROCEDURES		ANNOTATION
A. Activating Prior Knowledge	1. Activating Prior Knowledge OPTION 1 Activity Title: "Where Have You Seen This?" Instructions: Recall and connect real-life experiences or observations related to interpersonal effectiveness in Filipino settings (home, school, community). Answer the following worksheet. A. In a visual prompt display - three images will be shown with different scenarios:	Instructions to the Teacher: This is designed as a "recall and connect activity" - which helps learners build a cognitive bridge between prior knowledge and new learning. For Option 1: Where Have you Seen This? Activity will help students recall and connect real-life experiences or observations related to interpersonal effectiveness in Filipino settings (home, school, community), setting the tone for the topic. For Option 2: "What Makes It Work?" activity, is a guided discussion-categorization which aims learners to recall personal experiences and identify the interpersonal skill applied and connect familiar social behaviors to key interpersonal skills (ex: active listening, respect, empathy, clear communication, etc.) bridging to the new lesson.

3. Neighbors helping each other clean the street

Processing Questions:

1. Describe the event in each picture?
2. What values or behaviors are being shown?
3. Do you experience similar events in your life? Where?
4. Why do you think these behaviors are important?"

B. The students will then be given worksheets to write one example of a time they have showed or saw someone show effective interpersonal behavior in:

- a. Home: _____
- b. School: _____
- c. Community: _____

OPTION 2

Activity: "What Makes It Work?"

Instructions: Using rolled paper, with scenario prompts, let each group of learners choose which of these shows good interpersonal skills and what are the skills being used? (ex: respectful communication, active listening, empathy, clarity, nonverbal awareness, and negotiation or compromise)

Scenario Prompts

	Beneficial	Not Beneficial
Your sibling listens while you explain why you're upset.
A friend helps solve a disagreement in your group.
A classmate interrupts and talks to everyone during group work.
You ask your parent if you can go out and you say "po" and "opo."
You listen quietly while your friend vents, then give advice when asked.

This part of the lesson exemplifies the Instruction Delivery Framework (IDF) as being relevant, reflective, and responsive. The motivational activities make the lesson relevant by connecting classroom collaboration with real-life experiences on how they react to different scenarios presented and feel its relevance in attaining their purpose. It becomes reflective as students consider their past experiences and articulate how they want to interact in social situations in the future. Lastly, it is responsive because it allows the teacher to gauge students' understanding and attitudes on interpersonal effectiveness, then adjust guidance and support based on their input. These practices set the tone leading to a meaningful foundation for the rest of the lesson.

	Processing Questions: 1. Which of the following shows good interpersonal skills? Identify the skills. 2. Think about a time when you had a good conversation with a friend, a classmate, or a family member. What were the key components that made the conversation go well? 3. Was there something the other person did or said that helped you feel heard or respected? 4. Why do you think these skills are important in relationships at home, school, or the community?"
	2. Establishing the Purpose of the Lesson OPTION 1 Big Question Posting Post a question on the Board: "Have you ever had a misunderstanding with a classmate, a family member, or a friend? What do you think would have made the situation better?" (Let students share briefly to begin connecting the topic to their lives.) Option 2 Graphics with Spoken Introduction 	Instructions to the Teacher: To effectively facilitate the Establishing the Purpose of the Lesson activities, begin by creating a safe and inclusive environment for students to express their thoughts and lead them to understand why the lesson matters stating the learning goals, connecting it to real-life experiences, and providing guide questions. For Option 1, write the main question clearly on the board and let volunteers answer and share their experiences. For Option 2, show the graphic organizer and let them talk about interpersonal effectiveness relative to effective communication. Encourage them to collaborate with their groupmates. Annotation (Instruction Delivery Framework): This part of the lesson exemplifies the Instruction Delivery Framework (IDF) as being relevant, reflective, and responsive. The main question

	Say: We're going to discuss interpersonal effectiveness today, or how we may get along with others in various spheres of our lives. This covers the way we communicate, listen, treat others with dignity, and collaborate. Even though you may not be aware of it, you are already using these abilities every day when you assist your neighbors, participate in group projects, or speak with your parents or authorities in the community. Processing Questions: 1. How does this lesson impact our relationships with other people? 2. How is interpersonal effectiveness related to effective communication? 3. How can we draw a line between fostering conflict and fostering trust in social situations?	asked to the class and the graphics shown make the lesson relevant by connecting the class with real-life social situations experiences they can recall, or they can imagine. It becomes reflective as students consider their past experiences and articulate how they want to interact today. Lastly, it is responsive because it allows the teacher to gauge students' understanding and attitudes toward displaying interpersonal effectiveness through effective communication, then adjust guidance and support based on their input. These practices set a meaningful foundation for the rest of the lesson.
B. Instituting New Knowledge	1. Presenting Examples OPTION 1 Situational Videos: “Totoong Buhay, Totoong Usapan” Instructions: The teacher will present 3 short video clips, on realistic Filipino scenarios, highlighting social settings and featuring effective communication strategies at home, school, and community. <table> <tr> <th>Social Situation</th><th>Context</th><th>Skills Used/Values</th></tr> <tr> <td>SCENARIO 1: HOME – “Ma, Pwede Po?”</td><td> Context: A student wants permission to go out with friends but knows family values, respect, and responsibility. Dialogue Sample: “Ma, pwede po ba akong lumabas mamaya pagkatapos ko pong tapusin ang homework ko? Promise po, uuwi ako nang maaga”. </td><td> Skills Used: • Respectful language (“po”) • Clear verbal messaging • Consideration of family priorities Filipino Value: Paggalang, pakikipagkapwa-tao </td></tr> </table>	Social Situation	Context	Skills Used/Values	SCENARIO 1: HOME – “Ma, Pwede Po?”	Context: A student wants permission to go out with friends but knows family values, respect, and responsibility. Dialogue Sample: “Ma, pwede po ba akong lumabas mamaya pagkatapos ko pong tapusin ang homework ko? Promise po, uuwi ako nang maaga”.	Skills Used: • Respectful language (“po”) • Clear verbal messaging • Consideration of family priorities Filipino Value: Paggalang, pakikipagkapwa-tao	Instructions to the Teacher: To facilitate the two optional activities effectively under Presenting Examples, begin by choosing the most suitable activity for your learners' context and through real, relatable Filipino scenarios. For Option 1 (Situational Videos: “Totoong Buhay, Totoong Usapan”), we need to prepare the video in advance and ensure good audio-visual equipment is available. After viewing, guide a class discussion using the processing questions to unpack observed collaboration skills.
Social Situation	Context	Skills Used/Values
SCENARIO 1: HOME – “Ma, Pwede Po?”	Context: A student wants permission to go out with friends but knows family values, respect, and responsibility. Dialogue Sample: “Ma, pwede po ba akong lumabas mamaya pagkatapos ko pong tapusin ang homework ko? Promise po, uuwi ako nang maaga”.	Skills Used: • Respectful language (“po”) • Clear verbal messaging • Consideration of family priorities Filipino Value: Paggalang, pakikipagkapwa-tao

	SCENARIO 2: SCHOOL – “Group Work Harmony” Context: During a group task, one classmate disagrees with the plan. Dialogue Sample: “Iba po yung suggestion mo, and I understand your point. Pwede po bang pag-isipan natin ang ideas pareho para maganda ang resulta?”	Skills Used: • Assertiveness with respect • Active listening • Compromise and collaboration Filipino Value: Pakikisama, bayanihan	For Option 2 (“Tatlo sa Araw Ko” - Situational Vignettes”), you may read or assign selected learners in advance to give time to prepare and encourage creativity while focusing on real interpersonal interactions to show the social situation. and its application in school settings. Annotation (IDF Application): This section of the lesson exemplifies the Instruction Delivery Framework (IDF) through activities that are relevant, reflective, and responsive. It is relevant because each option connects students to real-life or relatable “reactions “on social situations or scenarios, anchoring learning in authentic contexts. It is reflective as students analyze actions, behaviors, and strategies that contribute to successful delivery of the intention, then relate them to their own experiences. The teacher’s role in processing responses and guiding discussion makes the activity responsive to the learners’ input, building on their observations and insights to reinforce key interpersonal effectiveness skills in a dynamic and engaging way using the scenarios presented.
	SCENARIO 3: COMMUNITY – “Barangay Concern” Context: A youth leader wants to talk to barangay officials about trash being left in public areas. Dialogue Sample: “Magandang araw po, Kap. Gusto lang po naming iparating na sana po ay magkaroon tayo ng clean-up drive. Handa po kaming tumulong bilang kabataan.”	Skills Used: • Polite, formal communication • Suggesting solutions, not just complaints • Using body language (nod, respectful stance) Filipino Value: Bayanihan, paggalang

Processing Questions:

- What made the communication effective?
- What could have gone wrong if the person shouted or ignored the situation?
- What Filipino values are shown in how they talked and acted?

OPTION 2

“Tatlo sa Araw Ko” - Situational Vignettes

Instructions: The teacher will present 3 social situations, on realistic Filipino scenarios, through reading aloud or acting out a social setting. Ensure that these scenarios feature effective communication strategies at home, school and in the community.

	Social Situation	Scenario	Key Skills Used
	AT HOME: “Paghingi ng Tulong sa Gawaing Bahay”	Scenario: Anna is overwhelmed with homework. Her mother asks her to wash the dishes. Instead of ignoring or reacting angrily, Anna says, “Ma, pwede po ba akong maghugas mamaya pagkatapos ng assignment ko? Kailangan ko lang po tapusin ito agad.”	Key Skills Used: • Verbal: Clear, respectful language • Nonverbal: Calm tone, eye contact • Filipino value: Paggalang
	At SCHOOL: “Group Work Conflict”	Scenario: In a group activity, James notices one member hasn’t been contributing. Instead of scolding, he says: “Kaya ba natin mag-usap bilang grupo para mapagplanuhan nang maayos ang gawain? Gusto naming marinig din ang ideas mo.”	Key Skills Used: • Verbal: Inclusive language, invitation to participate • Nonverbal: Open posture, friendly tone • Filipino value: Pakikisama
	IN THE COMMUNITY: “Maingay na Kapitbahay”	Scenario: Ella needs to review for an exam, but her neighbor’s karaoke is too loud. Instead of complaining harshly, she goes over and says: “Hello po, pasensiya na po. May exam po ako bukas. Pwede po bang hinaan muna ng kaunti ang volume?”	Key Skills Used: • Verbal: Polite request • Nonverbal: Smiling, gentle voice • Filipino value: Pakikipagkapwatao

	Processing Questions: 1. What skills were used in each situation? 2. Have you ever been in a similar situation? How did you respond? 3. What might happen if the characters didn't use respectful or clear communication?"
	2. Discussing New Concept OPTION 1 Concept Mapping Instructions: Present this to the class and guide them in filling out the blank concept map. Processing Questions: 1. What is interpersonal effectiveness? 2. Why is interpersonal effectiveness important? 3. What are the two types of Communication?	Instructions to the Teacher: To effectively facilitate the two optional activities under Discussing New Concept, begin by introducing the topic “Effective Communication as a Core Interpersonal Skill” and its relevance to students' lives. For Option 1: Concept Mapping, you will present a partially filled concept map on the board or screen highlighting key ideas such as communication, teamwork, respect, and responsibility. Encourage students to observe patterns, contribute their interpretations, and offer real-life examples during a guided discussion. Foster a respectful and interactive classroom atmosphere where students can build on each other's inputs showing collaboration within the class. For Option 2: Guided project the worksheet and walk students through its steps. Allow time for individual reflection and completion, then pair students for

4. How does learning effective communication affect our interpersonal effectiveness and social competence?

I. Understanding Interpersonal Effectiveness

What is interpersonal effectiveness?

Interpersonal effectiveness is the ability to interact positively and effectively with others. It involves clear communication, empathy, mutual respect, and the ability to maintain relationships while asserting one's own needs and boundaries.

Why is it important to daily life?

- Helps maintain healthy relationships with family, friends, and classmates
- Promotes teamwork, cooperation, and conflict resolution
- Builds trust and respect in social and community settings
- Essential for leadership, advocacy, and participation in civic activities

Core Filipino values that influence interpersonal relationships:

- Pakikipagkapwa-tao – Treating others with respect and compassion; seeing others as fellow human beings
- Paggalang – Showing deference, especially to elders and authority figures (e.g., using “po” and “opo”)
- Pakikisama – Maintaining harmony and avoiding conflict in groups; going along with the group
- Bayanihan – Working together for a common good; community cooperation

Examples of effective vs. ineffective interpersonal behavior:

Setting	Effective Behavior	Ineffective Behavior
Home	Listening to parents, expressing needs calmly	Shouting during disagreements, ignoring household rules
School	Working well in group tasks, speaking respectfully to teachers	Interrupting, blaming others in group projects brief sharing. Monitor responses to ensure they are specific and thoughtful and wrap up a synthesis of key takeaways using the provided processing questions.

Annotation (IDF Application):

Both activities exemplify the Instruction Delivery Framework (IDF) by fostering a relevant, reflective, and responsive learning environment. The relevance is established by anchoring the lesson in students' social realities— social situations showing effective communication as a factor to interpersonal effectiveness, peer interaction, and shared tasks. The reflective element is embedded through personal connections to the content, as students examine and articulate their experiences with interpersonal skills. Lastly, the activities are responsive because they allow flexible, student-centered approaches to concept exploration. Both options promote dialogue, critical thinking, and ownership of learning— cornerstones of effective and inclusive instruction aligned with the IDF.

	Community	Helping in clean-ups, politely talking to officials	Complaining rudely, not participating in activities
	II. Effective Communication as a Core Interpersonal Skill A. Verbal Communication 1. Use of Language ○ Speak clearly and appropriately depending on the context. ○ Use Filipino honorifics: “po,” “opo,” “Kuya,” “Ate,” “Ginoo,” “Ginang” 2. Clear Messaging ○ Think before speaking; use organized thoughts. ○ Avoid sarcasm or vague expressions that can be misunderstood. ○ Example: “I feel tired and need help with the dishes” vs. “Why do I always have to do everything?” 3. Mutual Respect ○ Let others finish speaking; respond thoughtfully. ○ Acknowledge differing opinions without dismissing them. ○ Use polite but assertive tone: “I understand your point, but I believe...” 4. Negotiation ○ Suggest compromises: “Can we divide the tasks?” ○ Ask help respectfully: “Pwede mo ba akong tulungan sa project?” B. Nonverbal Communication 1. Sensitivity to the Needs of Others ○ Smile, maintain calm posture, and show empathy through gestures (e.g., tapping shoulder, nodding) ○ Sense when someone is upset or uncomfortable and adjust accordingly 2. Recognizing Social Cues ○ Pay attention to facial expressions, tone, and body language ○ Filipino nonverbal gestures:

	▪ Pagmamano – gesture of respect to elders ▪ Ngiti (smile), tango (nod), taas-kilay (eyebrow raise) as informal greetings 3. Cultural and Contextual Awareness ○ Understand that older generations may expect more formality. ○ Know when to switch between formal (e.g., during meetings) and informal tone (e.g., with friends) III. Application of Effective Communication in Daily Filipino Settings At Home • Use respectful language with parents: “Ma, pwede po ba akong lumabas?” • Express concerns calmly: “Nahihirapan po ako sa dami ng gawaing bahay.” • Solve sibling issues by listening and compromising. At School • Join discussions by raising hands and waiting for your turn. • Listen and contribute to group work constructively. • Approach teachers respectfully: “Sir, may I clarify something about the lesson?” In the Community • Talk to barangay officials respectfully: “Kap, maaari po ba kaming humingi ng tulong?” • Collaborate in clean-ups, tree-planting, or youth events. • Address issues like noise or disputes with diplomacy. OPTION 2 Guided Exploration Instructions: Present this to the class and guide them in filling out the blank map following the steps.

Processing Questions:

1. What is interpersonal effectiveness
2. Why is interpersonal effectiveness important?
3. What are the two types of Communication?
4. How does learning effective communication affect our interpersonal effectiveness and social competence?

Step 1: Define Key Concepts

What is interpersonal effectiveness?

- The ability to communicate and interact positively with others while maintaining respect, clarity, and empathy
- Involves both verbal and nonverbal communication
- Includes being respectful, assertive, and aware of others' needs

Why does it matter?

- Helps build trusting relationships at home, in school, and the community
- Promotes peaceful conflict resolution and teamwork
- Reflects Filipino values like pakikipagkapwa-tao, paggalang, pakikisama, and bayanihan

	Step 2: Break Down the Components Verbal Communication Skills: • Using respectful words (“po,” “opo”) • Organizing your thoughts clearly • Speaking in an appropriate tone and volume • Giving constructive feedback Nonverbal Communication Skills: • Smiling, nodding, or using gestures • Showing empathy through facial expressions or body language • Understanding social cues like pagmamano or ngiti Step 3: Contextualize in Filipino Settings <table border="1" data-bbox="450 598 1570 906"> <thead> <tr> <th>Setting</th><th>Effective Communication Example</th><th>Filipino Values</th></tr> </thead> <tbody> <tr> <td>Home</td><td>Saying, “Tatay, pwede po ba tayong mag-usap tungkol sa aking schedule?”</td><td>Paggalang, pakikipagkapwa-tao</td></tr> <tr> <td>School</td><td>Telling a classmate, “Let’s talk about our group roles para walang gulo”</td><td>Pakikisama, bayanihan</td></tr> <tr> <td>Community</td><td>Asking a neighbor, “Pwede po ba tayong magsimula ng clean-up drive para sa paligid natin?”</td><td>Bayanihan, paggalang</td></tr> </tbody> </table>	Setting	Effective Communication Example	Filipino Values	Home	Saying, “Tatay, pwede po ba tayong mag-usap tungkol sa aking schedule?”	Paggalang, pakikipagkapwa-tao	School	Telling a classmate, “Let’s talk about our group roles para walang gulo”	Pakikisama, bayanihan	Community	Asking a neighbor, “Pwede po ba tayong magsimula ng clean-up drive para sa paligid natin?”	Bayanihan, paggalang
Setting	Effective Communication Example	Filipino Values
Home	Saying, “Tatay, pwede po ba tayong mag-usap tungkol sa aking schedule?”	Paggalang, pakikipagkapwa-tao
School	Telling a classmate, “Let’s talk about our group roles para walang gulo”	Pakikisama, bayanihan
Community	Asking a neighbor, “Pwede po ba tayong magsimula ng clean-up drive para sa paligid natin?”	Bayanihan, paggalang
	Ask: • What makes a conversation respectful in your family? • Have you ever seen a conflict at school that was solved by talking properly? • What do we need to consider before giving feedback to others? 3. Developing Mastery Option 1. "Situational Map: Home, School, Community" Instructions: • Create a 6-column chart (Home, School, Community). • Ask students to list or draw situations where communication makes a difference (positive or negative).	Instructions to the Teacher: To facilitate the two Developing Mastery activities, begin by clearly communicating the learning objective.

- They explain what skill could have improved the outcome (if negative), or what worked well (if positive).
- Discuss as a class how communication needs may differ by setting.

Social Situations
Home		School		Community
Positive	Negative	Positive	Negative	Positive	Negative

Processing Questions:

1. Why did you choose to write about that circumstance in the negative column?
2. How can we turn negative situations into positive ones?

Option 2. "Digital Kapwa Talk Circle" (LO2)

Instructions:

- Through a “google jamboard”, organize a typing circle in 5 groups, where students each respond to the following prompts real time:
 - A time when I solved a misunderstanding at home was...
 - A communication skill that helped me in school was...
 - One way I show respect in my community is...
- Encourage respectful sharing, practicing virtual communication as they reflect.

Processing Questions:

1. What are the common reactions in your group that have a positive impact on the social situation discussed?
2. How can effective communication foster understanding and peace at home, school and community?
3. What role does effective communication play in promoting understanding and peace at home, in school and in the community?

. For Option 1: Situational Map: Home, School, Community, organize students into small, diverse groups and guide them in assigning roles to promote responsibility and engagement. Provide a brief but clear view of the instructions and categorize real-life examples based on the setting. After the task, lead a reflective discussion using the processing questions.

For Option 2: Digital Kapwa Talk Circle, ensure students have digital access and introduce the form by explaining its sections. Prompt them to recall specific experiences from a recent group task. Encourage honest, reflective responses and facilitate brief peer sharing in small groups. Reflect on interpersonal communication in a Filipino context - Conclude with a whole-class debrief to identify common themes and growth areas in interpersonal effectiveness using effective communication.

This will expose learners to digital transfer of information while sharing concepts in a group. A reporter can share the consolidated data in real time right after the activity.

		Annotation (IDF Application): These Developing Mastery activities embody the Instruction Delivery Framework (IDF) principles by being relevant and reflective. The activities connect to students' real-life social situation experiences, making learning relevant through meaningful collaboration using the digital platform. The gathered data from their own reflections promote reflective learning, allowing students to evaluate both individual and group performance.
C. Demonstrating Knowledge and Skills	1. Finding Practical Application OPTION 1 “Bida sa Komunikasyon: Real Talk, Real Impact” Instructions: 1. Get a partner and select a scenario. Choose one authentic Filipino context-based scenario from the following categories: • Home (ex: resolving a misunderstanding with a sibling or parent) • School (ex: working through a group project conflict or requesting help from a teacher) • Community (ex: organizing a barangay cleanup or resolving a dispute among neighbors) 2. Assign roles and plan your presentation, focusing on your “communication goals” or what you want to achieve? • Key verbal and nonverbal strategies • Anticipated communication barriers and how to overcome them • Indicators of interpersonal effectiveness 3. Roleplay Performance (15–20 mins): Each group presents their roleplay (3–5 mins). Peers take note of: • Communication strategies used	Instructions to the Teacher: To facilitate the two optional activities under Finding Practical Application, provide clear guidance and set expectations for each task. For Option 1 “Bida sa Komunikasyon: Real Talk, Real Impact”, gives learners practice realistic communication skills in social situations, showing understanding of Filipino cultural norms, values and expectations in interpersonal communication. Furthermore, they begin to internalize roles that will carry over into the unit performance task. This will be done in pairs, and they will be graded through a simple rubric. Finally, peer and teacher feedback will be done for processing.

- Effectiveness of verbal and nonverbal cues
- Clarity and respectfulness in interactions

Role-Play Rubric: Interpersonal Communication

Criteria	Beginning (1)	Developing (2)	Proficient (3)	Excellent (4)
1. Communication Strategies Used	Rarely or inappropriately uses communication strategies; lacks consideration of situation/context.	Uses basic or inconsistent strategies; some mismatch to the situation or audience is evident.	Uses generally appropriate strategies with minor lapses; message remains mostly suitable for the context and audience.	Consistently uses highly appropriate strategies tailored to the situation, context, and audience; shows adaptability and purposefulness.
2. Effectiveness of Verbal and Nonverbal Cues	Verbal and nonverbal cues are inappropriate or ineffective; hinders understanding.	Some verbal or nonverbal cues are distracting, unclear, or conflict with the message.	Most verbal and nonverbal cues support the message and emotions conveyed.	Verbal and nonverbal cues (tone, gestures, eye contact, posture) strongly enhance meaning and reflect emotional awareness and intent.
3. Clarity and Respectfulness in Interactions	Message is confusing or disrespectful; disregards others' perspectives or feelings.	Message has unclear parts or occasionally lacks respectful tone or phrasing.	Message is mostly clear and respectful, with few lapses in phrasing or tone; generally, acknowledges others' perspectives.	Message is consistently clear, well-structured, and expressed with politeness and cultural sensitivity; shows high respect for others' views/feelings.

Scoring Guide

- 12–11: Excellent – Demonstrates strong interpersonal communication and cultural awareness.
- 10–8: Proficient – Good use of communication strategies with minor areas for improvement.
- 7–5: Developing – Communication is inconsistent; needs improvement in clarity or delivery.
- 4–3: Beginning – Limited effectiveness in communication; needs significant support.

OPTION 2

"Tunay na Usapan: Gumaganang Komunikasyon sa Tahanan, Paaralan, at Komunidad"

Instructions:

1. Teacher introduces the goal of the simulation: to demonstrate how communication skills improve interpersonal effectiveness in real-world Filipino contexts.

For Option 2 (Tunay na Usapan: Gumaganang Komunikasyon sa Tahanan, Paaralan, at Komunidad), in this activity, students participate in a simulation lab where they roleplay everyday Filipino situations requiring effective interpersonal communication. They must apply their knowledge of verbal and nonverbal communication, cultural norms, and context-sensitive strategies to solve a problem or accomplish a social objective with group collaboration.

Annotation (IDF Application):

The Finding Practical Application section exemplifies the Instruction Delivery Framework (IDF) through relevant, reflective, and responsive activities. The activities are relevant because they connect classroom learning to real-world situations—whether planning a presentation or providing students with practical, meaningful experiences that tie into their own lives and futures. They are reflective as students evaluate their presentation, reflect on real-world insights, and consider how they can apply these lessons in future group settings. The activities are responsive because they encourage interaction with peers, professionals, and community members, promoting deep discussions and learning experiences that adapt to students' own observations, questions, and insights.

	2. Divide the class into 4-5 groups, each group randomly selects/assigned one scenario from 3 domains: ○ Home (ex: asking permission from a strict parent, resolving sibling conflict) ○ School (ex: dealing with a miscommunication with a teacher, leading a group project) ○ Community (ex: coordinating a barangay activity, settling a neighbor complaint) 2. Each group uses a Simulation Planner Worksheet with the following prompts: ● Context: Where and with whom is this happening? ● Objective: What do you want to achieve through communication? ● Interpersonal Strategy: What Filipino values or practices are relevant (e.g., pakikipagkapwa, paggalang)? ● Communication Plan: What verbal and nonverbal strategies will you use to achieve your goal? ● Conflict or Barrier: What possible misunderstanding or conflict may arise? How will you handle it? 3. Roleplay Simulation (20 minutes) ● Each group presents a 3–5-minute roleplay simulating the scenario. ● Teacher and peers observe using a rubric or feedback sheet assessing: ○ Appropriateness of communication strategies ○ Clarity and empathy ○ Use of Filipino cultural values ○ Effectiveness in achieving social goals 4. Debrief and Reflection ● After each roleplay, the teacher facilitates a short reflective discussion with prompts: ○ What communication strategies worked well? ○ How did the group demonstrate interpersonal effectiveness?

- What challenges did you face, and how did you overcome them?

Materials Needed

- Scenario cards or slips
- Simulation Planner Worksheets
- Peer and teacher feedback rubrics
- Reflection prompts (optional handout or slide)

Optional Scaffolding for Unit Performance

This simulation helps students practice and refine communication strategies in various contexts, preparing them for a culminating unit performance task like:

- A video blog (vlog) on real-life communication challenges
- A community outreach simulation
- A panel discussion or advocacy pitch using communication principles

Role-Play Rubric: Interpersonal Communication in Context

Criteria	Beginning (1)	Developing (2)	Proficient (3)	Excellent (4)
1. Appropriateness of Communication Strategies	Uses inappropriate strategies for the context; tone and language are not suited to the situation.	Some attempt at appropriateness, but strategies may be mismatched to the situation or audience.	Uses mostly appropriate strategies, with minor lapses in tone or formality; shows awareness of context and audience.	Demonstrates highly appropriate strategies based on context, relationship, and purpose; tone, language, and gestures are consistently suitable.
2. Clarity and Empathy	Message is unclear; lacks empathy or disregards others' feelings.	Communication lacks clarity in parts; empathy is attempted but not consistently evident.	Communicates ideas with minor lapses in clarity; shows empathy and attempts to connect with others' feelings.	Communicates clearly and confidently; actively listens; shows strong empathy through tone, responses, and non-verbal cues.

	3. Use of Filipino Cultural Values	No evident use of Filipino cultural values in communication.	Shows minimal connection to Filipino values; use may be superficial or unclear.	Demonstrates some Filipino values relevant to the situation.	Clearly integrates Filipino values (e.g., pakikisama, hiya, utang na loob) in speech, actions, and decisions.
	4. Effectiveness in Achieving Social Goals	Does not achieve a goal; communication causes confusion or tension.	Partially achieves goal; outcome is unclear or only partly effective. Scoring Guide ● 16–14: Outstanding performance and demonstrates strong interpersonal competence. ● 13–10: Proficient; shows good understanding of some areas for growth. ● 9–6: Developing; needs improvement in clarity, empathy, or cultural awareness. ● 5–4: Beginning; limited communication effectiveness and cultural integration.
2. Making Generalization OPTION 1 Reflection Sheet Instruction: 1. Ask students to complete the following prompts: ● 3 key things I learned about interpersonal effectiveness in different settings (home, school, community) ● 2 situations where I can use effective communication to improve relationships ● 1 specific action I will take to practice verbal or nonverbal communication skills in real life OPTION 2 Quote-Synthesize-Apply Instructions:					Instruction to the Teacher: To facilitate the three optional activities under Making Generalization, begin by setting the tone for reflection and synthesis. For Option 1: Reflection Sheet, give students quiet time to respond individually to the prompt. Encourage honesty and self-awareness. For Option 2: Quote-Synthesize-Apply, let the class search or craft a slogan or quotation – to spring them towards encapsulating what they have learned. classroom charter, then display this visibly.

	1. Present a culturally relevant quote or proverb (ex: “Those who don’t know how to get along with others are difficult to deal with”) 2. Students: Quote: Interpret the quote in their own words Synthesize: Link it to what they’ve learned about interpersonal effectiveness and communication Apply: Describe a real-life situation where the quote’s wisdom applies Annotation (Instruction Delivery Framework): These generalization activities align with the Instruction Delivery Framework by being relevant, reflective, and responsive. They are relevant as they draw directly from students’ recent interpersonal effectiveness experiences, helping them connect learning to real-life. They are reflective because each activity invites students to assess their strengths and areas for growth in interpersonal skills. Finally, they are responsive by valuing student voice - through personal reflections — allowing the lesson to adapt to what students truly experienced and learned. This deepens ownership and understanding of effective communication as a tool toward interpersonal effectiveness.
3. Evaluating Learning OPTION 1 Scenario Sorting Activity: “Match and Act” Instructions: Provide learners with ten short scenarios (from home, school, and community). Learners sort them into: 1. High interpersonal effectiveness 2. Low interpersonal effectiveness Then, they suggest better verbal and nonverbal strategies for the “low effectiveness” ones. <table><tr><td></td><td>Scenario</td><td>Setting</td><td>Effectiveness</td></tr><tr><td>1</td><td>You raise your voice and walk out during a disagreement with your younger sibling.</td><td>Home</td><td> Ineffective </td></tr></table>		Scenario	Setting	Effectiveness	1	You raise your voice and walk out during a disagreement with your younger sibling.	Home	Ineffective	Instructions to the Teacher: To facilitate the two optional activities under Evaluating Learning, begin by setting clear expectations for honest answering of the activity. For Option 1: Scenario Sorting Activity: “Match and Act” to be answered in the worksheets. For Option 2: Quick Check Quest, to be answered in the worksheets. Annotation on Instruction Delivery Framework: This part of the lesson applies the Instruction Delivery Framework by being relevant, as students evaluate

	4. Additional Activities OPTION 1 Walk and Talk (Verbal Communication Focus) Objective: To develop clarity, tone control, and confidence in verbal communication. Time: 10–15 minutes How to Play: 1. Students walk around the room casually while music plays. 2. When the music stops, they turn to the nearest person and discuss a quick prompt (teacher provides it). - o Example prompts: “Talk about your dream job,” “Describe a difficult conversation,” or “How do you show respect?” 3. Emphasize tone, eye contact, and active listening. 4. Repeat 2–3 rounds with different partners. Debrief Questions: • What communication habits did you notice in yourself? • Was it easy to express yourself clearly while moving? Why or why not? • How do you feel when someone listens to you attentively? OPTION 2 Communication Relay (Fun, Fast-Paced, Collaborative) Objective: To encourage teamwork, clarity of speech, and non-verbal cooperation. Time: 15 minutes	Instruction to the Teacher: To facilitate the two optional activities under Additional Activities, begin by setting the students to the activity and clearly explain the task. For Option 1 – Walk and Talk, leads to personalized learning and articulating lessons in a physical activity. For the Option 2 - “Communication Relay” – (Fun, Fast-Paced, Collaborative, helps the learners to personalize the concept of interpersonal effectiveness across contexts. Annotation on the Instruction Delivery Framework: These additional activities are intentionally designed to be relevant, reflective, and responsive. They are relevant because they mirror real-life interpersonal effectiveness in social situations. The activities are reflective - encouraging students to assess their responses and as a group write essays on their thoughts about the topic. Finally, they are responsive by allowing multiple modes of participation. Each task provides an authentic context for what they have learned.

	How to Play: 1. Prepare 2–3 relay teams. Each team lines up on one side of the room. 2. One at a time, a runner gets a message or gesture from the teacher. - o Verbal version: A tongue twister or phrase - o Non-verbal version: An emotion to act out (e.g., excitement, boredom, fear) 3. The runner goes to the other side and relays the message or acts out the emotion to the next teammate, who repeats it to the next, and so on. 4. Final person shares the message or guesses the emotion. Debrief Questions: • How did the message change as it was passed on? • What helped or hurt clarity? • How is this similar to real-life communication problems? Wrap-up Idea: End with a Mindful Communication Walk — students pair up and take a slow, mindful walk outside or around the classroom while taking turns talking and listening mindfully, and close it with a breathing exercise.
