IV. PROCEDURES	ANNOTATION
A. Activating Prior Knowledge	1. Activating Prior Knowledge

“Good day! Class, today marks another exciting session for we are about to introduce another relevant topic which will be tackled this week. The topic is composed mostly of your sharing about your life experience.”

Option 1: Song Interpretation

The teacher will let the learners watch the video titled “Sana’a Pag-ibig na Lang,” which can be accessed through https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=7p_HUxOVr4w. After watching, write your favorite line and interpret what values are presented to those lyrics.

Option 2: Relationship Map

The teacher will introduce the Relationship Map. It is a concept map-like organizer that tells the connection of different values/attitudes in building good relationships. The value which they think is most important should be placed in the center of the map.

Option 3: Walk in My Shoes: A Rational Harmony Exercise (Physical Activity Insertion)

The teacher will group the class and ask the students to think of desirable values and let them portray those values through a scene by giving them 5 minutes to prepare. The teacher will let them walk slowly for 10 seconds, and after then seconds, the teacher will shout Go and portray a scene depicting

Teachers may choose from various options, considering the learners, context, and availability of materials. Additionally, they may look for additional resources that they believe will further enhance the lesson. However, be it chosen or self-produced activities, it must be processed immediately after their conduct.

Teachers may choose from various options, considering the learners, context, and availability of materials. Additionally, they may look for additional resources that they believe will further enhance the lesson. However, be it chosen or self-produced, activities must be processed immediately after their conduct.

The activity involves IDF components such as:

Principle: ---

Aspect: Context

	the chosen values. After 10 seconds, the teacher will shout “Freeze”. The rest of the class will guess what values are being portrayed. 2. Establishing the Purpose of the Lesson “From the activity we have just conducted, we can easily say that we are surrounded by different desirable values that we look forward to every day. Now, let us try to relate these values to our everyday life.” Option 1: Post-It • The teacher will ask the learner to write in a Sticky Note or Meta Card the values that they think are the most essential in building a relationship • The student will post them on the board • The teacher will classify them according to their frequency • To process the activity, the teacher will ask the learners why they think that values appear to be frequent Option 2: Survey Board • The teacher will post 5 values which help to strengthen relationships (Love, Dedication, Loyalty, Care, and Respect) • Group the class into 4. • Give them 5-10 Minutes to decide how they would distribute their 100 points to the five given values posted on the board • Call a representative from each group and allow them to arrange the 5 posted values and discuss their answer Option 3: Guess that Picture • The teacher will show some pictures of values that help establish a relationship and let the student guess the posted values.	Events: Empathize
--	---	-------------------

	Processing Questions: 1. What do you think is the common denominator of this set of values? 2. Do these values contribute to solidifying the relationship with one another? 3. How do these values strengthen the relationship to one another?
B. Instituting New Knowledge	1. Presenting Examples Do you understand now what desirable values are and which of these values strengthen our relationships with one another? Today, we will explore a clearer explanation deepen our understanding of this lesson. Unlocking of Difficulties. • Empathy- Feeling and understanding others' emotions • Pro-Social Behavior- Prioritizing others' well-being • Other-centeredness- Actions intended to benefit others • Pakikipagkapwa- Filipino value of deep connection and respect for others • Compassion- Ability to recognize and understand someone else's suffering • Fairness- Treating people equally and with respect • Kindness- Expressed thoughtful actions, words, and gestures that uplift others. • Collaboration- Working together to achieve a common goal. Processing Question 1. How is harmony seen in various relationships? 2. How do these values that strengthen relationships differ from other values? 3. Why are the following essential in strengthening a relationship?	Teachers may choose from various options, considering the learners, context, and availability of materials. Additionally, they may look for additional resources that they believe will further enhance the lesson. However, be it chosen or self-produced, activities must be processed immediately after their conduct. The activity involves IDF components such as: Principle: Ideational Aspect: Collaboration Events: Empathize

Option 1: Circle of Emotion (Physical Activity I ertion)

Students will form small groups and take turns sharing a happy experience. Each student will speak for one minute while the others listen attentively without interruptions. To select the next speaker, all students will raise their hands and count down from 10 to 1. At the end of the countdown, they will point to the person they believe should share next. The student with the most fingers pointed at them will then share their experience.

Shared experience may focus on

- Empathy
- Pro-social Behavior
- Other-centeredness
- Pakikipagkapwa
- Compassion
- Fairness
- Kindness
- Collaboration

Option 2: Experience Log

The teacher will give the class 10 minutes to log their personal experience about the values written in the template. After accomplishing the activity, the class will be grouped into 5 and allow them to share their experience based on their answered output.

Values that Strengthen Relationships	Personal Experience
Empathy
Pro-social Behavior
Other-Centeredness

Pakikipagkapwa
Compassion
Fairness
Kindness
Collaboration

Processing Questions:

1. Which of these values—empathy, pro-social behavior, other-centeredness, pakikipagkapwa, compassion, fairness, kindness, or collaboration—have you personally practiced in a meaningful way?
2. Can you recall a moment when someone demonstrated one of these values toward you?
3. What challenges have you faced in embodying these values?

2. Discussing New Concept

We're going to explore something truly meaningful—qualities that help us build stronger relationships, become better individuals, and create a more compassionate world."

Let me ask you, and just answer it with your mind: Have you ever felt happy when someone helped you during a tough time? Or have you ever felt a deep connection when you listened to a friend's struggles? These feelings and actions are all connected to our topic today.

Option 1: Direct Teaching

The Teacher will discuss the following concept:

Relational harmony refers to the state of peaceful and positive interactions between individuals in a relationship, whether it's among family members, friends, colleagues, or communities. It involves mutual respect, effective communication, understanding, and a willingness to support one another.

In cultures that value collectivism, such as Filipino culture, relational harmony is deeply connected to concepts like Empathy, Pro-social Behavior, Other-Centeredness, Pakikipagkapwa, Compassion, Fairness, Kindness, and Collaboration. It prioritizes avoiding conflict, nurturing connections, and maintaining balance in relationships rather than focusing on individualism.

Empathy - “Empathy is our ability to understand and share the feelings of others. It's more than just saying ‘I know how you feel’—it's about truly feeling someone else's emotions as if they were your own.” Example: When a friend is feeling sad, instead of just saying, ‘Cheer up,’ you try to understand why they feel that way and offer comfort.”

Pro-Social Behavior - “This is any action that helps or benefits others. It includes kindness, sharing, and cooperation.” Example: Helping a classmate who dropped their books, donating to charity, or assisting someone in need without expecting anything in return.”

Other-Centeredness - “This is about putting others before ourselves—not in a way that neglects our own needs, but in a way that promotes mutual respect and care.” Example: When making decisions, we consider how they affect others rather than just ourselves.”

Pakikipagkapwa - “This is a uniquely Filipino value that means treating others as fellow human beings. It’s about deep connection, respect, and being considerate to those around us.” Example: Helping neighbors during difficult times, showing gratitude, and maintaining harmonious relationships.”

Compassion - “Compassion is more than just feeling sorry for someone—it’s about understanding their struggles and taking action to help. Example: When you see a classmate feeling down, showing compassion means offering support instead of ignoring their feelings.”

Fairness – "Being fair means treating everyone with equality and respect, giving each person a chance to be heard and valued. Example: A teacher assigning group tasks and making sure everyone gets an equal role promotes fairness.

Kindness – "Kindness is the simple act of making someone's day better, whether through words, actions, or small gestures. Example: Smiling at a friend, sharing notes, or offering help when someone is struggling all show kindness.

Collaboration – "Collaboration means working together toward a shared goal. It teaches teamwork, patience, and understanding. Example: In a group project, students listen to each other's ideas, divide tasks equally, and support one another to succeed.

Option 2: Kindness Jar

Fill a jar with strips of paper that contain random acts of values that build interpersonal relationships such as:

- a. Tell a joke to a classmate
- b. Compliment a classmate
- c. Help a classmate in need
- d. Share lunch with a classmate
- e. Spend time with a friend
- f. Help teacher
- g. Send an appreciation card to your friends or teachers

Processing Questions:

1. How did you feel while doing the random acts of kindness?
2. How did the other person feel when you did the act of kindness?
- 3. How will these random acts of kindness affect class relations if these will continuously practiced?

	3. Developing Mastery “Since you have already gained knowledge about Relational Harmony, let's deepen your understanding further. To better grasp this concept, relate and apply it to your personal experiences by doing the following activity.” Option 1: Peer Reflection Using the same group, the teacher will ask each member if they already experienced empathy, pro-social, and other Relational Harmony within the group. Example Sharing Student A: I experienced pakikipagkapwa to Student B when I was new in this group. Student B let me feel that I belong and I can contribute to the success of this group Option 2: You are Valued and Loved Have you ever felt hurt? What made you feel better? Write a letter to someone who is currently hurting because of an illness or something bad that happened. Let the feel loved and valued. Processing Questions 1. Who did you write the letter to? 2. How did you feel about writing the letter? 3. How did the recipient feel about the letter? 4. What other acts of kindness can you practice? Option 3: Change the Scene The teacher will post some of the current issues where Relational Harmony may be applied and ask some of the student to share their personal views.	Note for Option 2: Teacher will still “seamlessly” discuss Option 1 as the teacher integrates it with the answer of the learner. Teachers may choose from various options, considering the learners, context, and

	Example of Current Issues Related to Relational Harmony • Road Rage • Basketball Brawl • School Bullying	availability of materials. Additionally, they may look for additional resources that they believe will further enhance the lesson. However, be it chosen or self-produced, activities must be processed immediately after their conduct. The activity involves IDF components such as: Principle: Ideational Aspect: Collaboration Events: Empathize
C. Demonstrating Knowledge and Skills	1. Finding Practical Application Since you have already gained knowledge about Relational Harmony, let's deepen your understanding further. To better grasp this concept, relate and apply it to your personal experiences by doing the following activity. Option 1: Seeing the World Through Another's Eyes The teacher will describe a few situations, and wants the learners to tell how this Relational Harmony could be applied. For example, if the teacher says, 'A new student feels shy and left out in class,' what will you do? The answer may be done through a role-play • Group 1: Empathy	Teachers may choose from various options, considering the learners, context, and availability of materials. Additionally, they may look for additional resources that they

	• Group 2: Prosocial Behavior • Group 3: Other-centeredness • Group 4: Pakikipagkapwa • Group 5: Compassion • Group 6: Fairness • Group 7: Kindness • Group 8: Collaboration Option 2: Write what is Right The learner will choose one of the Relational Harmony values and think of a person who best represents those values. The learner will make a 3-paragraph essay on why this person modelled this value and how they can/adopt this. The learner may add “receipt” or any evidence that prove their/ claim. He/she may post his/her resume while reading the essay. 2. Making Generalizations After completing various activities to enhance your knowledge, we will now summarize what we have learned and reflect on how we can further expand our understanding of this lesson. Option 1: Exit Ticket Challenge (Physical Activity Insertion) This will be done before leaving the classroom. The student will line up and complete the statement “I learned that _____ and I also realized that _____” After that, the learner will perform his/her favorite TikTok dance as a sign of their success. Option 2: Spell It Out The student will choose one among the Relational Harmony Values and needs to spell out the word by choosing words related to that of the chosen values	believe will further enhance the lesson. However, be it chosen or self-produce, activities must be processed immediately after its conduct. The activity involves IDF components such as: Principle: Integrative Aspect: Collaboration Events: Empathize Teachers may choose from various options, considering the learners, context, and availability of materials. Additionally, they may look for additional resources that they believe will further enhance the lesson. However, be it chosen or self-produce,

Option 3: Vlog-Values Blog

The teacher will ask the student to create a 60-second Vlog by flexing any school personnel (teacher, utility, school admin) which exhibits the characteristics of the different Relational Harmony. Social Media Challenge. Post acts showing kindness or empathy on your social media page. Challenge a friend or a classmate to do the same.

3. Evaluating Learning

After studying the key concepts of Relational Harmony and reflecting on them, we will now proceed to your assessment to measure how deeply you have understood this week's lessons and determine if we are ready to move on to the next topic.

Option 1: 10-Item Quiz

Read each statement carefully. Choose the letter of the correct answer.

V. ASSESSMENT
(Assessing Learnings)

“For our final activity, you are expected to create an artistic output that will summarize what you have learned throughout the entire session. This will serve as your culminating output/performance”

Option 1: Relational Harmony: The Movie

After the group presentations, the class will engage in video-making activities. This exercise will help students practice the values actively and creatively. Each group will be assigned a different scenario that requires the value they were discussing. Groups will take turns acting out their scenarios. The group members will role-play different parts of the scenario, focusing on how they can demonstrate the assigned value in action.

Empathy: A student imagines what it’s like to be new to the school and speaks to the feelings of a new student.

Pro-Social Behavior: A student notices someone being excluded and actively works to include them in a group activity.

Other-Centeredness: A student helps a friend with their homework before focusing on their own.

Pakikipagkapwa: A student greets a janitor or community member with respect, treating them like an equal part of the community.

Compassion: One student pretends to be a friend going through a tough time (e.g., loss of a pet), while another student offers comfort and help.

Fairness: During a classroom debate, one student ensures that everyone gets an equal chance to speak and listens to others respectfully.

Kindness: One student performs a small, kind gesture, like sharing their lunch with a classmate who forgot theirs.

Collaboration: Students work together on solving a classroom problem, such as planning an event or designing a poster.
