I. Activity: “My Life Map” – Day 3

II. Objective(s): At the end of the activity, you should be able to create and present a “Life Map” that shows the protective, proactive, and risk factors that you need to handle. Make thoughtful and thorough reflections from them about their life map that can guide them to succeed in life.

III. Materials Needed:

- Paper, bond paper, or notebook for drafting the map
- Markers, crayons, or coloring materials (for creative design)
- Access to a computer or tablet (for digital file)
- Rubric (provided by the teacher for self-assessment)

Instructions: Your task is to design a Life Map about the events that happened in your life experiences in life. You may use a mountain trail, road map, timeline, etc. Decorate your path with drawings, stickers, or color to show your story. You may pair up with a classmate and share one part of your map. You will then present it using one of the following formats:

- Manual
- Digital

Your Plan Should Include:

1. Events in your life

It can be from personal experiences in the family, peers, school, or community.
Write and sketch your scenario here:

2. Proactive factor

Show on the map what are helpful that you did in the events in your life.
Protective Actions:

3. Proactive Action

Identify and describe actions that could help you avoid the risk factor to happen.

4. People Support

List the people who can support in dealing your risk factors in life.

5. Reflection

Reflect on how you can help yourself to become a successful person when you go to college, work, business, or enhance your skills. Your reflection:
