Lesson No.:	6	Date:
Lesson Title/ Topic:	Career Advancement
Name:		Grade & Section:

Activity- OPTION 1: Career Ladder Think-Pair-Share

Objective(s): At the end of the activity, the learners would be able to show representation of what a person needs to advance in his/her chosen career.

Materials Needed: notebook, bond paper, and pen

Instructions:

Ask learners to imagine that a career is like climbing a ladder. Each step represents progress or growth in one's career.

Distribute bond papers or ask them to draw in their notebooks a simple ladder with 5–6 steps.

Instruct learners to label each step with what they think a person needs to do to advance in their career (e.g., finishing school, training, learning new skills, gaining experience, finding a mentor, getting promoted).

After drawing, they will share their ladders with a partner (Think-Pair) and then share insights with the class (Share).

Choose your partner. Answer the following:

Think: Take a quiet moment to reflect on your own. Ask yourself:

1. What steps did you write that help someone move up in their career?_____

Pair: Turn to your partner and listen to what they have written down in their notebook.

Share: Some members of the class will share their insights and realizations about the activity.

Synthesis:

Among the factors mentioned in the discussion, what do you think is the most important to advance in your career?

Look back on your or other people's work experience, cite instances that the factors mentioned in the discussion played a crucial role in their career advancement.

Activity - Option 2: Career Path Jumble

Objective(s): At the end of the lesson, the learners would be able to define words related to career advancement based on their initial understanding.

Materials Needed: pen and paper

Instructions:

Write the following scrambled terms on the board or project them:

T N A I N R I G
C H A C I N O G
N O I T O M O R P
T O M E R N I G N

Instruct learners to form pairs. Their primary task is to quickly unscramble the four terms (Training, Coaching, Promotion, Mentoring).

Once the words are unscrambled, ask pairs to write down a one-sentence definition of each term based purely on their existing knowledge or assumption. They should also quickly brainstorm how one of these terms relates to their current SHS track.

Synthesis:

What do these words mean to you?

How are they related to your future career?

Have you seen these in real life, maybe with your parents or guardians?

Activity (Option 1): CASE TO CASE

Objective(s): At the end of the lesson, the learners would be able to analyze real workplace scenarios to identify how training, coaching/mentoring, and promotion affect career advancement and recommend practical employer/employee actions.

Materials Needed: paper and pen

Instructions:

Remind learners of the lesson purpose: to explore how training, coaching & mentoring, and promotion support career growth.

Reconnect to the earlier Career Ladder activity and say: “Today we’ll examine short stories showing how people move up the ladder or get stuck in the ladder.”

Students read the assigned case study silently and underline key facts. They must underline one sentence that shows the main problem and one sentence that shows the result.

Each group will discuss among themselves the answers to the following questions:

- What responsibility was missing or handled well?
- Which step on the career ladder does this example relate to?

Representatives from each group will also discuss the salient points of their discussion in the class.

Sample Cases

Case A — Training

Carla, an IT staff, completed an online certification in network security. She applied new practices that reduced system downtime. Her manager noticed and gave her more complex tasks and a lead role in a small project.

Case B — Coaching & Mentoring

Juan was paired with a senior engineer who reviewed his designs, gave feedback, and provided checklists for complex tasks. Juan’s error rate dropped and he completed projects faster.

Case C — Promotion

Liza worked 3 years as a cashier. She took initiative to train new hires, volunteered for overtime, and led on-floor problem solving. Management promoted her to shift supervisor.

Synthesis:

Among the three scenarios, which do you think is the prominent responsibility missing or handled well?

What step in the career ladder is this scenario crucial or most vital?

Activity (Option 1): THINK-PAIR-SHARE

Objective(s): At the end of the lesson, the students would be able to identify crucial factors in one's career advancement and reflect on the ways to apply it on their own in the future.

Materials Needed: pen and paper

Instructions:

The teacher will facilitate a discussion about the following key points:

Training

Coaching and Mentoring

Promotion

After the discussion, the students will be guided to the following activity:

THINK

What are the types of training should be given to the career that you would want to pursue? (e.g., formal workshops, on-the-job training, online courses)

Which would benefit the employee more: coaching or mentoring?

How can you help yourself be promoted?

PAIR

Discuss your answers with a partner.

SHARE

Decide the salient points of your partner's conversation that should be shared to the class.

Synthesis

What is the difference between a coach and a mentor? Why are they important?

What are the criteria for promotion? How can one prepare for it?

Activity (Option 2): CONCEPT MAPPING

Objective(s): At the end of the activity, learners will be able to explain connections of factors affecting career advancement.

Materials Needed: pen and paper

Instructions: Determine the factor (training, coaching and mentoring, promotion) should the following words in the concept be classified.

Synthesis:

What connection can you draw from the words in the diagram?

How would these help an employee advance in his or her respective career?
