I. Activity 1 (Option 1): Situational analysis

II. Objective (s) At the end of the activity, learners will be able to analyze workplace scenarios and propose practical strategies to improve work efficiency by identifying specific steps to complete tasks faster and more effectively.

III. Materials Needed: pen and paper

Instructions: You will be presented with three workplace scenarios. Choose one scenario that interests you the most. Then, suggest practical ways to make the work faster and more efficient. List down the steps or actions you would take to achieve this improvement.

a. Hospital Pharmacy (Healthcare)

Scenario: Patients line up to claim their prescriptions. The pharmacist must verify, prepare, and explain the correct medicine quickly.

Possible answers for Efficiency: Prevents long queues, ensures patient safety, and maintains smooth hospital flow.

b. Classroom Preparation (Education)

Scenario: A teacher has only a short break to set up materials and technology before the next class.

Possible answers for Efficiency: Saves time, keeps lessons on schedule, and maximizes learning time.

c. Restaurant Kitchen (Food Industry)

Scenario: During peak hours, the kitchen staff must prepare multiple orders simultaneously while maintaining food quality.

Possible answers for Efficiency: Ensures timely service, reduces errors, and keeps customers satisfied

I. Activity 2 (Option 2): Reflection and Discussion (Individual activity):

II. Objective(s): At the end of the activity, learners will be able to demonstrate understanding of stewardship values by analyzing scenarios and explaining how ethics, accountability, and teamwork are applied through prioritization, allocation, and optimization of resources.

III. Materials Needed: pen and paper

IV. Instructions: Write a short discussion for each scenario towards ethics, accountability, and teamwork using prioritization, allocation, and optimization.

Scenarios:

1. Limited Equipment

Goal: Ensure tasks are completed efficiently despite the lack of tools or machines.

Role: You are part of a work team in a production or service area.

Audience: Your supervisor and co-workers.

Situation: The workplace is experiencing a shortage of working equipment — only a few machines or tools are functional. Productivity is slowing down, and customers are waiting longer.

Product: A short plan or a role-play showing how your team can share equipment, schedule usage, or find alternatives to complete tasks efficiently.

Standards: The plan should demonstrate teamwork, resourcefulness, and fair use of limited resources.

2. Staff Shortage

Goal: Maintain quality service and efficiency despite having fewer workers.

Role: You are an employee assigned to help manage the workload while covering for absent team members.

Audience: Customers and co-workers.

Situation: Several staff are absent, leaving others to handle extra tasks. Some areas are getting behind schedule, and stress levels are rising.

Product: A proposed work strategy or skit that shows how the team divides responsibilities, supports each other, and communicates effectively.

Standards: The output must show teamwork, adaptability, and initiative in handling workload pressure.

3. Budget Cutting

Goal: Continue operations and maintain quality while reducing costs.

Role: You are a member of a planning committee tasked to propose cost-saving measures.

Audience: The company's management and staff.

Situation: Due to financial constraints, management has announced budget cuts affecting supplies, events, and allowances. Some employees are worried about how this will impact their work.

Product: A written proposal or short presentation on realistic ways to save costs without compromising service quality.

Standards: The proposal must be practical, creative, and consider both financial limits and employee morale.

4. Disagreement Among Workers

Goal: Restore teamwork and harmony in the workplace.

Role: You are a mediator or team leader observing a conflict between two co-workers who disagree on work methods.

Audience: The team and supervisor.

Situation: Miscommunication and differing opinions have caused tension in the team. Productivity and cooperation are affected.

Product: A role-play or dialogue showing how the issue can be resolved through respectful communication and compromise.

Standards: The solution should highlight empathy, active listening, and conflict-resolution skills.

5. Conflict Between the Manager and the Staff

Goal: Improve understanding and rebuild trust between management and employees.

Role: You are part of a committee or HR staff assigned to help both sides express their concerns and find a solution.

Audience: The manager and the staff.

Situation: Employees feel unheard about workplace issues, while the manager believes they are being disrespected. Tension is rising, and communication has broken down.

Product: A mediation plan, letter, or role-play showing how to open communication channels and propose fair compromises.

Standards: The response should demonstrate professionalism, respect for authority, and a balanced approach to problem-solving.

I. Activity No.3 (Option 2): Daily Planner or Calendar Scheduling

II. Objective(s): At the end of the activity, learners will be able to organize their tasks and manage their time effectively by creating a daily planner or calendar schedule that balances academic, personal, and self-care activities.

III. Materials Needed: pen and paper

IV. Instructions: Create your own daily planner or calendar schedule for one full day. Include your tasks, class hours, breaks, and personal activities. Make sure your schedule shows how you prioritize tasks and manage your time efficiently.

| Planning and OrganizationClear plan for using resources and managing tasks; structured approach to the project. | Plan is missing or illogical; tasks and resources are not clearly defined or allocated; work appears disorganized.                       | Plan is present and manageable, but may lack detail or fail to anticipate minor obstacles; tasks are generally understood and followed.       | Plan is clear, detailed, and strategic; tasks are logically sequenced, resources are proactively assigned, and the team manages time efficiently.       |
| Resource UseEfficient and appropriate allocation of limited resources (time, materials, budget).                | Resources are wasted or disproportionately allocated; the team consistently runs out of time or materials due to poor management.        | Resources are used adequately, but not always efficiently; minor wastage of time or materials occurs, but doesn't halt progress.              | Resources are maximized and allocated fairly; the team demonstrates exceptional control over time, materials, and budget.                               |
| PrioritizationAbility to identify important tasks and focus effort effectively; minimal distraction.            | The team fails to distinguish urgent tasks from non-urgent ones; effort is spent on minor details, delaying critical milestones.         | The team generally prioritizes major tasks correctly, but focus is inconsistent ; some time is lost to secondary or non-essential activities. | The team consistently and accurately identifies and focuses on high-priority, critical tasks; distractions are effectively minimized.                   |
| Teamwork and CollaborationLevel of cooperation, communication, and shared responsibility among team members.    | Communication is poor or hostile; tasks are not shared, leading to conflict, resentment, or a single person doing most of the work.      | Team members cooperate adequately and complete assigned duties; communication is functional but lacks initiative or depth.                    | Teamwork is seamless and proactive; communication is open and constructive; responsibility is genuinely shared, and members support each other's roles. |
| Presentation and ReportingClear, organized, insightful, and engaging delivery of the final presentation/report. | The presentation/report is confusing, unorganized, or contains significant errors; key findings are difficult or impossible to identify. | The presentation/report is generally clear and accurate, but lacks deep insight or is delivered in a monotone or unengaging manner.           | The presentation/report is crystal clear, logically organized, highly engaging, and provides insightful analysis beyond the expected requirements.      |
