IV. OBJECTIVES (Setting Clear Objectives and Analyzing the Tasks)	The learners are expected to: 1. Differentiate and analyze various forms of employment (permanent, contractual, probationary, casual, self-employment, part-time) and work arrangements (onsite, remote, hybrid), highlighting their implications on career growth and stability; 2. Apply decision-making and planning skills in aligning personal career goals with appropriate employment type, work arrangement, and compensation structure; 3. Demonstrate proactive strategies and practices that promote occupational wellness, such as time management, stress reduction, and balancing professional and personal responsibilities; 4. Evaluate compensation and benefits packages (salary, incentives, insurance, allowances) and value their role in promoting employee satisfaction, motivation, and financial security; and 5. develop awareness and appreciation of the importance of maintaining work-life balance, integration, harmony, and fit as essential aspects of overall well-being.
IV. PROCEDURES		ANNOTATION
A. Activating Prior Knowledge	1. Activating Prior Knowledge Activity 1: “Career Match-Up” • Strategies: Concept Recall & Connection	The teacher will facilitate a variety of activities that cater to different types of learners. These differentiated tasks are

Republic of the Philippines
Department of Education
 BUREAU OF LEARNING DELIVERY

	● Process: ○ The learners will provide cards or paper strips containing different employment types (permanent, contractual, probationary, casual, self-employment, part-time) and work arrangements (onsite, remote, hybrid). ○ On another set of cards, the learners will write short descriptions, situations or scenarios (e.g., “Lukas works from home four days a week,” “Luna operates her own online store”). ○ The learners will match each description to the appropriate employment type and work arrangement. ● Purpose: This activity helps learners recall existing knowledge of job categories and relate them with real-life situations. Activity 2: “Benefit Hunt” ● Strategies: Discussion & Brainstorming ● Process: ○ Facilitate the following tasks: Ask learners: “What do you think motivates employees to stay in a job aside from salary?” Let learners: List down answers (insurance, allowances, incentives, career growth, work-life balance) on the board. Lead learners: Facilitate a short discussion linking their responses to compensation packages and employee satisfaction.	designed to address learners’ diverse needs and help them gain a deeper understanding of the lesson’s context and concepts. The designed activities are: responsive as learners build their prior knowledge and real-life experiences, making the lessons relatable and engaging; relevant as learners connect concepts like employment types, compensation, and work-life balance to real-world situations that learners may encounter in their families or future careers; reflective as learners encourage to assess their own balance, values, and aspirations, guiding them toward informed decision-making. Overall, the activities make learning practical, meaningful, and future-oriented.

- Purpose: The learners will be encouraged to relate personal or family experiences (parents, relatives, community workers) with workplace realities.

Activity 3: “Balance Check Reflection”

- Strategies: Personal Connection & Sharing
- Process:
 - The teachers will provide their learners a short reflective prompt/statement:
 - “Think about your school-life balance today. How do you manage study, rest, family time, and hobbies? Do you feel balanced or overloaded?”
 - Let the learners share in pairs or small groups.
 - Let them link their experiences to work-life balance, occupational wellness, and decision-making in future careers.
- Purpose: The learners will connect personal experiences with broader concepts of occupational wellness, stress management, and planning for future goals.

2. Establishing the Purpose of the Lesson

Activity 1: “Employment Scenarios Recall”

Target: Differentiate forms of employment & evaluate compensation/benefits

Materials

- Scenario cards (short written examples of different employment situations) OR teacher-read stories.

Republic of the Philippines
Department of Education
 BUREAU OF LEARNING DELIVERY

- Whiteboard/Manila paper for class listing.

Procedure

1. Priming (2–3 mins):

- The teacher will ask: “Have you ever heard your parents, relatives, or neighbors talk about their work status (contractual, permanent, part-time, etc.)?”

2. Presenting (7–8 mins):

- The teacher will present 4–5 scenario cards; “Alpha signed a six-month contract,” “Dude owns a small sari-sari store,” “Olivia works only on weekends while studying”
- In pairs/groups, the learners will identify what form of employment is being described.
- The learners will discuss and explain the list of employment forms on the board with their examples.

3. Processing (5 mins):

- The learners will ask the given questions:
 - “Which type of employment do you think offers the most stability?”
 - “What forms of compensation or benefits might be linked with each?”
- Teacher reinforces the link between employment form and career stability/benefits.

Activity 2: “Work-Life Balance Reflection Web”

Target: Develop awareness of work-life balance; demonstrate occupational wellness practices

Materials

- Whiteboard or manila paper.

Republic of the Philippines
Department of Education
 BUREAU OF LEARNING DELIVERY

	• Markers Procedure 1. Priming (2 mins): ◦ The learners will do this task: Write “Work-Life Balance” at the center of the board. Ask: “What comes to mind when you hear this phrase?” 2. Presenting (7–8 mins): ◦ The learners will take turns sharing one word/phrase related to the topic (examples: family, stress, rest, hobbies, school, health, overtime, fun). ◦ The teacher will respond to the central word, forming a concept web. 3. Processing (5 mins): ◦ The teacher will facilitate the discussion guided with these questions: ■ “Which words reflect a healthy balance?” ■ “Which ones show imbalance or stress?” ■ “Why is maintaining harmony important for success at work and in life?” ◦ The teacher will do transitions of concepts into strategies for wellness (time management, stress reduction, etc.). Activity 3: “Career Compass Mapping” Target: Apply decision-making in aligning personal career goals with employment types, work arrangements, and compensation Materials

- Blank paper or worksheet with 3 sections: “My Goal,” “Possible Pathways,” “What Matters to Me.”
- Pens/markers.

Procedure

1. Priming (2–3 mins):

- The teacher will ask: “What is your dream job or career in the future?” (Volunteer a few quick responses).

2. Presenting (8–10 mins):

- The learners will conceptualize/write a simple “Career Compass Map focusing on”:
 - Center: Their goal/dream job.
 - Pathways: Employment types or work arrangements could lead there.
 - Considerations: Benefits, balance, or personal values they think are important.

3. Processing (5 mins):

- Let the teacher encourage volunteers from the class to share their compass maps.
- Ask:
 - How do you see yourself after college or vocational training? What would be your job?
 - “Which compensation/benefits would motivate you most?”

	■ “How does work-life balance fit into your future career plan?” ○ The teacher will reinforce alignment between career goals, employment choices, and wellness practices.
B. Instituting New Knowledge	1. Presenting Examples Activity 1: “Who Works Where?” Topic: Employment & Work Arrangements Target: Differentiate and analyze employment types and work arrangements. Materials • Picture cards or slides of jobs (e.g., cashier, teacher, Grab driver, freelancer, call center agent, nurse). • Manila paper/whiteboard for class listing. Procedure 1. Motivation (2–3 mins): ○ Ask: “What jobs do you see most in your community or family?” (e.g., teachers, drivers, vendors). 2. Presentation (5 mins): ○ Show picture cards or read short role profiles (e.g., “Ana teaches in a public school,” “Ben drives for Grab after office hours,” “Carla works weekends as a cashier”). 3. Task (7 mins): ○ In groups, learners classify each example: What type of employment and work arrangement does it represent?

Republic of the Philippines
Department of Education
 BUREAU OF LEARNING DELIVERY

- Groups post/share answers on the board.
- 4. Processing (5 mins):
 - Discuss:
 - “Which jobs seem most stable or secure? Why?”
 - “Do you know someone with this type of work? What’s their experience?”
 - Teacher reinforces: each type/arrangement has advantages and implications for career stability.

Activity 2: “Paycheck Breakdown”

Topic: Compensation & Benefits

Target: Evaluate compensation and benefits packages.

Materials

- Mock payslip (with salary, tax, deductions, insurance, allowances, incentives).
- Worksheets for group highlighting.

Procedure

1. Motivation (2 mins):
 - The teacher will ask: “Have you heard adults talk about their salary, benefits, or deductions? What do they usually mention?”
2. Presentation (5 mins):
 - The teacher will show the learners a sample payslip.

Key concepts:

A salary is a fixed amount of money paid to an employee over a specified time, usually annually.

Republic of the Philippines
Department of Education
 BUREAU OF LEARNING DELIVERY

Benefits refer to the non-wage compensation provided by employers, enhancing your overall employment package.

Source: <https://examplesweb.net/what-is-the-difference-between-salarywages-and-benefits-give-two-examples-of-benefits/>

3. Task (7–8 mins):

- In pairs, the learners will highlight or label which items in the payslip are salary and which are benefits.
- The groups will share which benefits they find most helpful or motivating.

4. Processing (5 mins):

- The teacher will facilitate the processing questions:
 - “Which is better: high salary only or salary with benefits? Why?”
 - “Why do employees need health insurance?”
- Teacher summarizes: compensation and benefits promote satisfaction, motivation, and security.

Activity 3: My Ideal Day

Topic: Work-Life Balance & Career Goals

Task: Develop awareness of balance, align goals with employment choices, and demonstrate wellness practices.

Materials

- Story cards of two contrasting employees (Andres: high pay, long hours; Olivia: moderate pay, balanced life).
- Blank paper/worksheets titled “My Ideal Workday.”

Story Card 1: Andres

Job Title: School Principal II

Age: 35

Salary: 57, 347/month

Work Hours: 40-50hours/week

A Day in Andres’s Life:

Andres wakes up at 6:00 AM and prepares things before even getting out of bed. After a quick breakfast, they're already on calls by 7:00 AM. Most of Andres’s day is packed with meetings, seminar /trainings deadlines, and presentations. Lunch is often skipped or eaten at the desk. Even after office hours, Andres keeps working into the night, sometimes past 8:00 PM. Though financially comfortable and respected in their field, Andres rarely has time for family, hobbies, or even sleep. Weekends are often interrupted by urgent tasks. Andres feels successful—but also drained.

How Andres Feels:

Proud of career accomplishments
 Constantly tired and stressed
 Misses out on personal time and relationships
 Worries this pace isn’t sustainable

Republic of the Philippines
Department of Education
 BUREAU OF LEARNING DELIVERY

Procedure

1. Motivation (2–3 mins):

- The teacher will lead the priming activity with this statement: “Have you seen someone too busy at work? How does it affect their life?”

2. Presentation (5 mins):

Read or narrate the story of Andres vs. Olivia. Show pictures or a simple timeline of their daily lives.

3. Task (7–8 mins):

- Learners discuss: “Who would you rather be—Andres or Olivia? Why?”
- Individually, draw or write their ideal workday: how they want to divide time for work, rest, family, and hobbies.

4. Processing (5 mins):

- Volunteers share their ideal workdays.
- Guide discussion:
 - “What matters more: high pay or balanced time?”
 - “How can choosing the right job and planning ahead help achieve this balance?”
- The teacher will emphasize links to decision-making, planning, and wellness strategies.

2. Discussing New Concept

A. Nature of Employment

Activity: “Word Match and Explain”

Step-by-step guide:

Story Card 2: Olivia

Job Title: Administrative Officer II

Age: 33

Salary: 28,000/month

Work Hours: 40 hours hours/week

A Day in Olivia’s Life:

Olivia starts the day around 6:30 AM with a morning jog and breakfast with their partner. Work begins at 9:00 AM, with a flexible schedule that allows for focused work and collaboration. Olivia takes a full lunch break—sometimes even goes for a walk.

By 6:00 PM, Olivia logs off and shifts attention to personal activities: cooking, volunteering, spending time with family, or learning a new skill. Olivia feels content with the balance between work and life.

How Olivia Feels:

Enjoys a steady routine
 Feels healthy and connected
 Sometimes wonders about long-term growth
 Has energy to pursue passions outside of work

	Preparation: Write the key employment terms (e.g., permanent, contractual, probationary, casual, part-time, self-employment) on one set of cards. On another set, write their definitions. Grouping: Divide the class into small groups and give each group a mixed set of cards. Task: Learners will match each employment term with its correct definition. Discussion: After matching, each group explains one term and its meaning to the class, using a real-life example (e.g., a contractual teacher hired for one school year). Teacher's Role: Confirm correct matches, clarify misconceptions, and expand by explaining relationships among the different terms (e.g., differences between permanent and probationary). Key Concepts Employment Status and Nature of Appointment in Civil Service The resolution outlines the different types of employment appointments in government service: 1. Permanent Appointment – Issued to a person who fully meets all qualification standards, including eligibility, education, training, and experience required by law. Maria Bella has been appointed as a Permanent Senior Education Program Specialist after successfully completing all minimum hiring requirements. and fully meets the CSC prescribed qualification standards, including:	The teacher will briefly discuss/ emphasize the highlighted key concepts on each topic.

	Education	Bachelor's degree in Education or its equivalent and completion of academic requirements for master's degree relevant to the job
	Experience	2 years of experience in education, research, development, implementation, or other relevant experience
	Eligibility	RA 1080; Career Service (Professional) Appropriate Eligibility for Second Level Position
	Training	8 hours of relevant training
2. Temporary Appointment – Granted when there is no available qualified applicant with eligibility. It is valid for up to 12 months and renewable only under certain conditions (e.g., absence of eligible applicants). Temporary appointments are not allowed for positions requiring professional licenses unless justified. Example: Administrative Aide Position (Clerical Role) • Scenario: A Municipal Government Office needs an Administrative Aide I (clerical position). • Status: There is no available applicant with the required Civil Service eligibility.

Republic of the Philippines

 BUREAU OF LEARNING DELIVERY

	• Action: A qualified applicant without eligibility (e.g., a college graduate) is given a Temporary Appointment. • Condition for Appointment: Valid for up to 12 months, or until an eligible applicant becomes available. 3. Coterminous Appointment – Issued depending on certain conditions: Primarily Confidential in Nature, with the Lifespan of the Agency Example: Private Secretary to the Mayor • Position: Private Secretary • Appointing Authority: Mayor • Coterminous With: The term of the mayor • Explanation: The Private Secretary serves at the pleasure of the mayor. Once the Mayor's term ends or is replaced, the Private Secretary's appointment automatically ends too 4. Substitute Appointment – Given when the regular employee is temporarily unable to perform duties (e.g., on leave, suspension, scholarship, or secondment). This is effective only until the return of the incumbent. Example of Substitute Appointment for a Teacher Scenario: • Mrs. Sampana, a Permanent Teacher I at Mabini Elementary School, is on Maternity Leave for 105 days (around 3.5 months).

	• Whiteboard/blackboard or manila paper (for answers) • Markers or sticky notes Step-by-Step Procedure Step 1 – Introduction (3–5 minutes) • Greet the learners and ask: “Have you heard about flexible work arrangements like work-from-home or compressed workweeks? Why do you think the government allows them?” • Briefly explain that the Civil Service Commission has officially defined six FWAs to balance service delivery and employee welfare. Step 2 – Activity Instructions (2 minutes) • Tell learners: “I will give you short scenarios. Your task is to decide which type of Flexible Work Arrangement each scenario describes.” • Show or distribute the list of FWAs (Flexiplace, Compressed Workweek, Skeleton Workforce, Work Shifting, Flexitime, Combination of FWAs). Step 3 – Scenario Matching (10 minutes) • Present the scenarios one by one (through slides, reading aloud, or handing out strips). • Learners can: ◦ Write the answer on paper, or ◦ Raise their hand and give the answer, or ◦ Work in small groups to discuss and decide. Sample Scenarios to Use:	The teacher will prepare necessary materials or modify scenario/s for the activity. This is to ensure delivery of context based on the diverse needs of each learner.

1. Luna works from her home two days a week and reports to the office three days. → Flexiplace
2. Employees render 10 hours a day for four days instead of the usual five days. → Compressed Workweek
3. During a typhoon, only a few employees are asked to report to ensure basic services continue. → Skeleton Workforce
4. A government hospital assigns nurses in morning, evening, and night duty shifts. → Work Shifting
5. Lukas starts work at 7:30 AM while Anna reports at 9:00 AM, but both complete 40 hours weekly. → Flexitime
6. An office uses a mix of three days onsite and two days WFH in one week. → Combination of FWAs

Step 4 – Discussion & Clarification (5 minutes)

- After each scenario, ask: “Why do you think these fits [the answer]?”
- Reinforce the definition of each FWA in simple terms.

Step 5 – Synthesis/Wrap-Up (2–3 minutes)

- Summarize: “Flexible Work Arrangements are designed to ensure continuous public service while considering employees’ health, safety, and work-life balance.”
- Optional reflective question: “If you were a government employee, which FWA would you prefer, and why?”

Key Concepts

The Civil Service Commission (CSC), through Resolution No. 2200209, institutionalizes flexible work arrangements (FWAs) in government to ensure the continuous delivery of public service while safeguarding the health, safety, and welfare of employees.

Republic of the Philippines

Department of Education

BUREAU OF LEARNING DELIVERY

It covers all government officials and employees across agencies, LGUs, GOCCs with original charters, and SUCs, regardless of employment status.

The resolution defines and allows agencies to adopt various FWAs, including:

- ☐ Flexiplace – an output-oriented arrangement allowing employees to work away from the office (home, satellite office, or another fixed place) temporarily, with approval.
- ☐ Compressed Workweek – compressing the 40-hour workweek into four (4) days or less instead of the usual five (5).
- ☐ Skeleton Workforce – only the minimum number of employees report to the office to maintain operations when full staffing is not possible.
- ☐ Work Shifting – assigning employees in shifts, especially for agencies mandated to provide 24/7 services or where safety/health protocols require staggered presence.
- ☐ Flexitime – employees may choose their daily arrival and departure time between 7:00 AM and 7:00 PM, as long as the required 40 hours per week are met.
- ☐ Combination of Work Arrangements – agencies may mix two or more FWAs (e.g., skeleton workforce with work from home) to fit their mandate and circumstances.

IV. Other Flexible Work Arrangements and Their Relationship to R.A. No. 11165

While R.A. No. 11165 focuses on telecommuting, it exists within a broader ecosystem of flexible work arrangements recognized by the DOLE. These include:

1. Compressed Workweek: Employees work longer hours on certain days but fewer days in a week, without reducing their total weekly working hours. For example, employees might work four 10-hour days instead of five 8-hour days.
2. Flexitime: Employees have the freedom to determine their start and end times within a specified core period, as long as they complete the required number of hours per day or week.
3. Job Sharing: Two or more employees share one full-time position, splitting the hours and responsibilities between them.
4. Reduced Workdays or Rotation of Workers: During economic downturns or when demand is low, employers and employees may agree on reducing workdays or rotating employees on certain shifts to avoid retrenchments.

C. 1. Compensation and Allowances in the Government

Under the TCF, the total payment to an employee for services rendered shall be composed of the following:

a. Basic Salaries (with Step Increments) – the fixed monthly pay of an employee, which may increase through step increments based on performance or length of service

b. Standard Allowances and Benefits – regular benefits and allowances given to all qualified employees (e.g., PERA, ACA, health benefits).

☐ PERA (Personnel Economic Relief Allowance) – A fixed monthly allowance (currently ₱2,000) granted to government employees to help them manage daily living expenses brought about by inflation and rising costs of basic goods and services.

☐ Uniform/Clothing Allowance Section 57 of the General Provisions of the FY 2025 GAA authorizes the payment of U/CA not exceeding Seven Thousand Pesos (₱7,000) per annum for each qualified government employee, subject to the guidelines, rules, and regulations issued by the DBM

☐ Year-End Bonus – DBMBC2024-3 amended Section 6.1 of DBMBC 2016-4, to provide that the year-end bonus, equivalent to one month's basic pay as of October 31, and the cash gift of P5,000, shall be given simultaneously with the first agency payroll for November of the current year.

☐ Cash Gift – A fixed amount (currently ₱5,000) granted along with the Year-End Bonus, serving as additional financial support for employees' year-end or holiday expenses.

Republic of the Philippines
Department of Education

D. Work Life Balance Activity: Work-Life Concepts Objective: To introduce and differentiate the five approaches to managing work and personal life. Step 1: Motivation / Warm-Up (2 minutes) “Think about the last time your work and personal life clashed. How did you handle it? Did you separate them, mix them, or adjust your schedule?” Step 2: Presentation of Concepts (5 minutes) “There are five major approaches to handling work and personal life. Let’s define them simply.” • Work-life Balance = keeping work and personal time separate. • Work-life Integration = blending work and personal activities. • Work-life Harmony = focusing on overall happiness at work and home. • Work-life Fit = adapting work to match personal priorities. • Work-life Negotiation = communicating and agreeing with employers to balance needs. Step 3: Activity – Concept Match Game (6 minutes) “I’ll read some scenarios. You tell me which work-life approach they best represent.” Scenarios & Expected Answers: 1. ‘I never check work emails after dinner.’ → Balance	Expected Learner Response: Some will say they separate strictly (e.g., “No work after 6 PM”). Others will mention blending (e.g., “I worked while watching my child’s game”). Some may say they adjust depending on the day. Teaching Note: This opens the discussion that there are different strategies for work-life management. Expected Learner Response: Learners listen, take notes, and may ask clarifying questions. Expected Learner Response: Learners call out or write down answers; short discussion follows.

2. 'I take work calls while commuting or walking my dog.' → Integration
3. 'I feel happy because my job allows me quality time at home and at work.' → Harmony
4. 'I scheduled my work shift to match my kids' school hours.' → Fit
5. 'I asked my boss if I could adjust my hours to care for a sick parent.' → Negotiation

Step 4: Debrief / Synthesis (3 minutes)

“What did we learn? These five approaches show that managing work and personal life isn’t one-size-fits-all. Some people need balance, others need flexibility, and others negotiate with their employers.”

Step 5: Closing Reflection (2 minutes)

“Which approach do you personally use the most, and why? Is there another approach you want to try in the future?”

Key Concepts

Work-life balance is the attempt to maintain a structured separation between professional responsibilities and personal time. The idea is to prevent work from dominating life. Some common principles include:

- Fixed working hours with no emails or calls after a set time
- Uninterrupted personal time for family, hobbies, and rest
- Structured work schedules that minimize spillover into personal life

Expected Learner Response:

Learners summarize differences. Some may share which concept fits their lifestyle best.

Work-life integration acknowledges that work and personal life are interconnected and need to coexist harmoniously. It allows professionals to structure their days in a way that complements both work and life demands.

Example: Elsa is a full-time marketing manager, values time with her kids, and staying fit. She integrates work and life by starting early with emails, handling school prep from 7:30–8:30 AM, and scheduling meetings during core hours (9 AM–3 PM). She picks up her kids at 3 PM, stays engaged with work as needed, and wraps up tasks after bedtime.

Work-life harmony involves incorporating work into the rest of life in a way that promotes happiness both at home and in the office. It is not about strict separation between work and personal life but rather finding ways to integrate and balance both seamlessly. It's about prioritizing well-being and creating a lifestyle that allows you to thrive in both your professional and personal roles.

Example: Mina is a marketing manager, balances her career and family by integrating both into her daily routine. She starts the day with a walk with her kids, stays focused during work hours, and takes breaks for family or self-care. With flexible hours and remote work, she can adjust her schedule as needed, allowing her to thrive both professionally and personally.

Work life fit is about aligning your work commitments with your personal priorities and lifestyle. It understands that the demands of today's work environment, combined with the complexities of personal life, require a more adaptable and personalized solution.

	Instead of keeping work and personal life separate, work-life fit encourages individuals to blend these aspects in a way that works best for them. Example: Roem, a store supervisor and single dad, starts work at 7 AM so he can finish by 3 PM and be there for his kids after school. If needed, he works later in the evening. This flexible setup lets him meet both work and family needs in a way that fits his life. Work-life negotiation is a strategic approach to balancing work and personal life, allowing individuals to make informed decisions about their work schedules and commitments. It involves understanding personal priorities, setting realistic expectations, and communicating effectively with employers. References: Tirmizi, H. 	- List down activities that demonstrate that you know how to relax after a stressful week. Include the following: - Physical activities (jogging, brisk walking, mindful walking, aerobics) - Hobbies – gardening, cooking, woodwork, art - Recreational – pilates, ball games Report what you have done in class.
Task	1. Finding Practical Application Task 1: Differentiate and analyze forms of employment and work arrangements Case Sorting Activity: Provide short case scenarios of employees (e.g., “Luna is hired for 6 months only,” “Lukas works 3 days a week while studying”). The learners will identify whether each case is permanent, contractual, probationary, casual, self-employed, or part-time, and whether the work arrangement is onsite, remote, or hybrid. Pros & Cons Chart: In groups, learners create comparison charts highlighting the advantages/disadvantages of each employment type and arrangement in terms of stability, growth opportunities, and lifestyle. Task 2: Evaluate compensation and benefits packages Compensation Package Analysis: Present different sample job offers with varying salaries, incentives, allowances, and benefits. Learners evaluate and rank them based on which package provides better motivation, satisfaction, and financial security.

- Salary vs. Benefits Debate: Divide the class into two groups: one argues that salary is the most important factor, the other that benefits and allowances matter more.

Task 3: Develop awareness and appreciation of work-life balance, integration, harmony, and fit

- Time Diary Reflection: The learners will create a 24-hour schedule of their typical day and analyze if their work/study/personal life is balanced. They then propose adjustments to improve balance.
- Work-Life Harmony Roleplay: Each group will perform short skits showing scenarios of poor vs. good work-life balance and its impact on well-being.

Task 4: Apply decision-making and planning in aligning career goals with employment type, arrangement, and compensation

- Career Alignment Workshop: The learners will draft a mini career plan where they identify their career goals, preferred employment type, work arrangement, and compensation expectations. They must explain their choices.

Republic of the Philippines

- Decision-Making Simulation: Provide “job offers” with trade-offs (e.g., high salary but no benefits vs. lower salary with strong benefits, or permanent onsite vs. flexible remote but contractual). Learners decide and justify which they would choose.

Example of Learner Mockup:

1. Career Goal: Data Encoder
2. Employment Type: Full-time
3. Work Arrangement: Remote
4. Compensation Expectations: 300,000/year + performance bonuses + paid time off

5. Justification:

- ☐ Why did you choose this job?
- ☐ How does it align with your career goal?
- ☐ How does the compensation fit your needs?

Task 5: Demonstrate proactive strategies for occupational wellness

- Stress Management Toolkit: The learners will create a personal toolkit (list of strategies, practices, or routines) they can use to manage stress, improve time management, and balance personal/professional tasks.

	• Occupational Wellness Action Plan: In pairs, the learners will design a 1-week action plan that includes time allocation for work/study, family, rest, and leisure. They present how their plan maintains balance and reduces stress. 1. Stress Management Toolkit Objective: Create a personalized toolkit with strategies to manage stress, improve time management, and balance responsibilities. Steps: 1. Reflect on past stressful situations: What worked and what didn't? 2. Research and list at least 5 strategies or practices to manage stress 3. Include time management techniques 4. Add personal routines that help balance personal and professional life 5. Write a brief explanation for each strategy—how and when you will use it. Outcome: A personalized list/toolkit that learners can keep and update as needed.	The teacher will prepare/ develop a (a) contextualize template for plans mentioned in each session/ task and (b) rubric for group performance assessment

2. Occupational Wellness Action Plan (Pair Activity)

Objective:

Design a one-week plan that balances work/study, family, rest, and leisure to reduce stress and promote wellness.

Steps:

1. Partner up and discuss typical weekly schedules and stressors.
2. Together, allocate specific time blocks for:
 - Work/study
 - Family time
 - Rest/sleep
 - Leisure/hobbies
3. Make sure the plan is realistic and balanced (e.g., avoid overloading work hours, including breaks).
4. Prepare a short presentation explaining:
 - How time is divided and why
 - How this balance helps reduce stress
 - Adjustments they might make if it doesn't work

Outcome:

A 7-day schedule and a presentation outlining the benefits of the plan.

2. Making Generalization

Activity: Occupational Wellness Concept Map”

Procedure:

1. The teacher draws three big circles on the board (or gives handouts):
 - Employment & Work Arrangements
 - Compensation & Benefits
2. Work-Life Balance & Wellness. Ask learners to recall the key points from each part of the lesson and contribute words/phrases to fill the circles.
 - Example: “Contractual = less stability,” “Insurance = security,” “Time management = stress reduction.”
3. As a class, connect the three circles with arrows, showing how each concept influences the others (e.g., “Employment type affects compensation,” “Benefits support work-life balance”).
4. The teacher will guide the learners to form one summary statement as a group, such as:

“Occupational wellness means choosing the right employment type, evaluating fair compensation, and maintaining balance between work and life for long-term growth and well-being.”

3. Evaluating Learning

Activity: Job Match Challenge

Format: Written + Performance Task (Individual/ Group)

Instructions for Learners:

1. Written Part (Quick Check):

Answer the following (short-answer or multiple-choice):

- Differentiate between permanent and contractual employment.
- Why are compensation and benefits important to employee motivation?
- Give one personal strategy you can use to maintain work-life balance.

2. Performance Task (Application):

- You will be given three sample job offers (different employment types, compensation packages, and work arrangements).
- Task: Choose one job that best aligns with your personal career goals and wellness priorities.
- Output: Write a short justification (5–7 sentences) explaining why you chose that option, considering:
 - Employment type/work arrangement
