LEARNING ACTIVITY SHEET (LAS) #1

Learning Area	Effective Communication	Quarter	3
Lesson No.	4	Date
Lesson Title/Topic:	Expressing Ideas Through Reflective Essays, Position Papers, and Critiques
Name		Grade & Section

Activity #1: Spot the Difference

Directions:

1. Provided with the three short excerpts (one reflective essay, one position paper, and one critique). In groups, students will read the excerpts and discuss:

- What type of academic writing is this (reflection, position paper, critique)?
- What clues helped you identify it? (tone, purpose, evidence, point of view)
- What ethical considerations can you notice or suggest (respectful tone, citation, fairness)?

Excerpt A

"During our group project in Science, I realized how important teamwork is. At first, I was hesitant to share my ideas, but when I did, my classmates listened and built on them. This experience taught me that collaboration makes problem-solving easier and more enjoyable. I also discovered my own strength in organizing tasks, which I will continue to improve."

Excerpt B

"The Philippines should invest more in renewable energy such as solar and wind power. Our dependence on fossil fuels harms both the environment and public health. Studies show that renewable energy creates more long-term jobs and reduces electricity costs. Therefore, the government must prioritize policies that support clean and sustainable energy."

Excerpt C

"The speaker's presentation on climate change was informative but lacked strong evidence. While the visuals were engaging, the arguments relied too much on personal opinions rather than scientific data. A more balanced approach, with credible sources and statistics, would have made the talk more persuasive. Despite this, the speaker successfully raised awareness about an urgent global issue."

2. Write your answers guided by the following format:

EXCERPT	TYPE OF TEXT	PURPOSE	TONE/STYLE	ETHICAL CONSIDERATION
Excerpt A
Excerpt B
Excerpt C

Reflective Question: How did identifying the differences in purpose, tone, and ethical considerations among the three excerpts help you better understand the unique features of reflective essays, position papers, and critiques?

GUIDE SHEET: REFLECTIVE ESSAY/POSITION PAPER/CRITIQUE
GROUP NO.	ASSIGNED WRITING STYLE:	ANSWER/S:
1. Main Idea or Message	-What is the video mainly about? Summarize in 2-3 sentences.
2. Personal Agreement or Disagreement (if applicable)	-Do you agree or disagree with the ideas presented? Why or why not? -What evidence supports your stand?
3. Key Evidence or Highlights	-What important examples, statistics, or points did the speaker/presenter show? -Which part of the video stood out to you the most?
4. Ethical Considerations	-Did the video or speaker use credible information? -Was the tone respectful, fair, and objective? -If you were to write about this, what should you cite or acknowledge?

Output Task: Using your notes above, create a mini version of your assigned text type (Reflective Essay, Position Paper, or Critique). Keep it short (1-2 paragraphs). Be sure to apply proper tone, structure and ethics.

Scoring Rubrics:

Criteria	Excellent (4 pts)	Good (3 pts)	Fair (2 pts)	Needs Improvement (1 pt)

Activity #3: Reflect, Argue, Critique

Theme: How social media influences students' study habits

Directions: Write a short piece that connects the theme not only to your academic life but also to real-life but also to real-life applications and one of the four SHS career exits: Higher Education, Employment, Entrepreneurship, Middle-Level Skills Development

Choose one lens of writing:

Option A – Reflective Essay (Personal Lens)

-Write a 1-paragraph reflection on how social media affects your study habits.

-Connect your insights to your chosen pathway:

Higher Education – how digital discipline and research habits prepare you for college.

Employment – how time management and professional online conduct prepare you for workplace tasks.

Entrepreneurship – how social media can inspire innovation or become a distraction in business planning.

Middle-Level Skills Development – How online tutorials, technical groups, or forums can support hands-on learning and certifications.

Option B – Position Paper (Argumentative Lens)

-Write a 1-paragraph position paper taking a stand: “Social media positively influences study habits OR “Social media negatively influences study habits.”

-Provide at least one research-based or real-life example.

-Relate your stand to one SHS exit:

Higher Education – Academic research and digital libraries.

Employment – Productivity and workplace training.

Entrepreneurship – using social media as a learning tool for business strategies.

Middle-Level Skills Development – accessing technical tutorials or certifications online.

Option C – Critique (Analytical Lens)

-Write a 1-paragraph critique of how students generally use social media for studying.

-Identify both the strengths and weaknesses (e.g., collaboration vs. distractions, easy information vs. misinformation)

End with a recommendation linked to one SHS exit:

Higher Education – encourage proper citation and source evaluation.

Employment – promote professional digital habits.

Entrepreneurship – use social media for market research instead of endless scrolling.

Middle-Level Skills Development – focus on skill-based communities and verified resources.
