

LESSON EXEMPLAR IN EFFECTIVE COMMUNICATION
Learning Area	English	Grade Level	11
Semester	First	Quarter	2

I. OBJECTIVES (Identifying the Goals)
Content Standard	The learners demonstrate effective communication in social and cultural contexts through oral, written, and multimodal forms; they understand that interaction patterns reflect social roles, group norms and dynamics, and cultural diversity and that openness, intercultural sensitivity, inclusive language, and ethical considerations foster respectful engagement with diverse communities in public settings and digital spaces.
Performance Standard	The learners are able to participate in communicative events that involve diverse social and cultural groups; engage in formal and informal interactions that reflect sensitivity to cultural norms, group roles and dynamics, and social practices; respond appropriately and respectfully in forums and public exchanges on social and cultural issues; and produce spoken, written, and multimodal texts such as public service announcements, opinion pieces, cultural narratives, community blog posts, and reflective commentaries that promote inclusive and ethical social communication.
Learning Competencies	1. Recognize underlying attitudes, assumptions, or perspectives related to social or cultural topics in various culturally significant communication events (e.g., speeches, media broadcasts, cultural performances). 2. Review one's participation in social or cultural communication, identifying strengths and areas for growth in promoting inclusive and ethical discourse. 3. Construct coherent arguments or narratives that reflect social responsibility, diversity, and shared values 4. Use culturally appropriate verbal and non-verbal strategies (e.g blogs, commentaries, social media advocacy posts, or short pieces) that promote inclusivity, equity, or social awareness.
Communicative Event	• Participating in intercultural conversations or community dialogues

II. REFERENCES and MATERIALS (Selecting Resources and Material)	• YouTube, YouTube, 13 Dec. 2013, www.youtube.com/watch?v=7SSXLIZkM3E. • Mandela, Nelson. Inaugural Address, May 10, 1994, Pretoria, South Africa https://www.gov.za/speeches/inauguration-president-nelson-mandela. • Video Analysis Template, Anticipation Guide, Task Cards • “hot potato” e.g. small size ball
III. CONTENT (Sequencing Content)	Effective Communication in Social and Cultural Contexts
IV. OBJECTIVES (Setting Clear Objectives and Analyzing the Tasks)	1. Recognize attitudes, assumptions, and perspectives on speeches 2. Use culturally appropriate verbal and non-verbal strategies 3. Apply effective communication in advocacy campaigns on social issues 4. Participate in cultural conversations through a forum 5. Reflect on one’s strengths and weaknesses in communication
IV. PROCEDURES

A. Activating Prior Knowledge	1. Activating Prior Knowledge Option 1: Anticipation Guide 1. Distribute to each learner a copy of the Anticipation Guide. 2. Learners decide if they agree or disagree with how the person communicates in the given situations. 3. Students put ✓ mark if they agree and ✗ if they disagree. They will put the mark in the “BEFORE” column. The “AFTER” column should be left blank because they will revisit their Anticipation Guide in the later part of the lesson.
--------------------------------------	---

	5. Continue the process with other volunteers until all the strips have been taken. 5. Establishing the Purpose of the Lesson 1. Instruct students to look for a pair. 2. With their pairs, ask students to give the possible topics/skills that they will learn based on their experience from the previous activity. 3. Write their answers on the board for quick reference. 4. Inform the students of the objectives of the lesson.
B. Instituting New Knowledge	1. Presenting Examples Option 1: Video Analysis 1. Divide the class into groups. 2. Let them choose a leader, a secretary, and a timekeeper. 3. Let the students watch the speech delivered by Yeb Sano on climate change during the UN Cop19 in Warsaw at https://youtube.com/watch?v=8yITq61XedI&si=ZSlkjp4xWGh_rU4g Give a brief background of Naderev “Yeb” Sano before students watch the video. 4. Let the students identify the attitudes, assumptions, and perspectives of the speaker using a chart below: <table><tr><th>Perspective</th><th>Attitude</th><th>Assumptions</th></tr><tr><td>What does the speaker identify climate change as an urgent issue to address?</td><td>What feelings does the speaker show about the topic? How does his attitude toward global leaders and climate action shape the tone of his message?</td><td>What assumptions does the speaker make about the causes and consequences of climate change?</td></tr></table> 5. Call a representative from each group to share the group’s output to the class. 6. Process the activity by asking this question: • How did the speaker use language in delivering the message? • In what way did his emotional delivery affect your understanding or reaction to his message? • Why is it important to recognize the perspective, attitude, and assumptions of the speaker?	Perspective	Attitude	Assumptions	What does the speaker identify climate change as an urgent issue to address?	What feelings does the speaker show about the topic? How does his attitude toward global leaders and climate action shape the tone of his message?	What assumptions does the speaker make about the causes and consequences of climate change?
Perspective	Attitude	Assumptions
What does the speaker identify climate change as an urgent issue to address?	What feelings does the speaker show about the topic? How does his attitude toward global leaders and climate action shape the tone of his message?	What assumptions does the speaker make about the causes and consequences of climate change?

Note to the Teacher: After doing the activity, were the learners able to identify the perspective, attitude, and perspective of the speaker? If yes, then you can proceed to the next activity, if not you may add another activity for the student to learn the skill.

Option 2. Speech Analysis

- 1. Divide the class into small groups.
- 2. Give each group a copy of the speech of Nelson Mandela during his inauguration as President of Africa.

“Today, all of us, by our presence here and by our celebration in other parts of our country and the world, confer glory and hope to newborn liberty. Out of the experience of an extraordinary human disaster that lasted too long, a society of which all humanity will be proud. Our daily deeds as ordinary South Africans must produce an actual South African reality that will reinforce humanity’s belief in justice, strengthen its confidence in the nobility of the human soul, and sustain all our hopes for a glorious life for all.

We still understand that there is no easy road to freedom. We know it well that none of us acting alone can achieve success. We must therefore act together as a united people, for national reconciliation, for nation-building, for the birth of a new world. Let there be justice for all. Let there be peace for all. Let there be work, bread, water, and salt for all.”

Source: “Inaugural Speech, Pretoria [Mandela-5/19/94,”n.d.

- 3. Let the groups identify the perspective, attitude, and assumptions of the speaker towards the topic using the 3-column chart below:

Perspective	Attitude	Assumptions
What does the speaker identify as the most important achievement for South Africa?	What words or phrases reflect the speaker’s tone in addressing the people of South Africa?	What assumptions does the speaker make about the possibility of national unity and reconciliation?

4. Call a representative to share the group's output.

5. Process the activity by asking this question:

- What was his speech about?
- What helped you identify the speaker's attitude toward the topic?
- Why is recognizing the attitude, tone, and perspective of the speaker important?

2. Discussing New Concept

- ✓ Social communication is the way people use language, gestures, facial expressions, and body language to interact with others in everyday situations.
- ✓ Cultural communication is the way people share information, ideas, and values based on their cultural background. It includes not only the language people use but also their customs, traditions, gestures, tone, body language, and social rules.
- ✓ Inclusive discourse is a way of communicating where everyone feels respected, valued, and heard, no matter their background, beliefs, or identity.
- ✓ Ethical discourse is a way of communicating that follows the principles of honesty, respect, fairness, and responsibility. It means expressing ideas and opinions in a way that does not harm others and is guided by moral values.
- ✓ Recognizing the attitudes, assumptions, and perspectives of speakers helps the audience understand the message more clearly and respond appropriately.

Note to the Teacher: The teacher may use video clips showing communication in different social and cultural situations that are available online. The teacher may also use the following videos:

3. Developing Mastery

Option 1. Etiquette, Please

1. Divide the class into six groups.
2. Prepare flags of different countries: United States, Japan, Australia, Saudi Arabia, Israel, China, etc. Leaders in each group will pick one. The group researches the etiquette of the country (e.g., hand gestures, dining, punctuality, etc) and presents it to the class on the agreed date.
3. Ask the groups to present the information using a Venn diagram to show the similarities and differences in the Philippines and the country they are assigned.
4. After the presentation of all the groups, process the activity by asking this question:
 - Why is it important to understand and respect when interacting with other people of different cultures?

Note to the Teacher: After doing the activity, were the learners able to identify different social and cultural differences in communication? If yes, then you can proceed to the next activity, if not you may add another activity for the student to learn the skill.

Option 2. Solving Communication Problem

1. Divide the class into small groups.
2. Give each group a copy of the dialogue.

Scene: The team is preparing for an upcoming inter-school presentation. There was tension in the air as the deadline approached.

Shayne: (firmly, checking notes and frowning slightly) Okay yeah, let's get straight to it. Kemmy, you have not yet submitted your presentation. What's going on?

Kemmy: (Looking down, speaking softly and hesitantly) I'm still working on it...I don't even think it's ready to be shared yet.

Shayne: (Sighs loudly, gestures with her hands in frustration) Hmmm...Maybe Kemmy has a good reason. It might help to ask first...

Arnold: (Shrugs and leans back in the chair) Yeah, I mean we've all been under pressure. Yeah – I sent my slides last night. They're rough, but done.

Shayne: (Sharp tone) We just needed things to be done, not perfect. This isn't personal, okay?

(Kemmy is visibly uncomfortable and avoids eye contact. Ayesha glances downward, feeling awkward. The room falls into an uneasy silence. A few moments later, Shayne takes a deep breath and softens her tone.

Shayne: Sorry, everyone. I think I came off too strong. We're all coming from different personalities, and maybe I didn't consider that enough.

Shayne: Kemmy, I realized that you desired to submit your best work, and I truly respect it. Would you feel comfortable sharing a draft today, just for team feedback?

Kemmy: (Nodding slightly) Yes, that would be okay. I was worried that it would reflect poorly on me.

Shayne: (Smiling) Not at all. We trust your work.

Kemmy: Maybe we can all share our drafts and finalize them together.

Ayesha: (Nodding, smiling slightly) That sounds great.

3. After analyzing the conversation, answer the following questions:

- Describe the attitude of Shayne towards others.
- Cite lines in the conversation that prove it.
- How do her classmates feel about her?
- What expressions show that her classmates were disappointed?
- Which expressions show that communication was finally restored?
- If you were Shayne, how would you have avoided the conflict?

4. This time, tell the groups to identify the communication problem/s and the solutions in the dialogue.

5. Call a representative from each group to present the group's output.

	6. Process the activity by asking these questions: • What communication problems occurred in the situation? • What strategies did the characters use to solve the communication issue? • How does attitude or tone affect the conflict and its solution? • What lessons can you apply from this activity in handling real-life communication conflicts better?
C. Demonstrating Knowledge and Skills	1. Finding Practical Application Option 1. Advocacy Campaign Theme: Be the Difference: Speak Up, Act Now 1. Divide the class into five groups. 2. Post pictures in different corners of the room depicting social issues in the community. • Bullying in school • Mental health problems • Environmental issues • Substance abuse • Academic pressure 3. Instruct students to select a corner where they have posted their topic of interest. 4. Students who stayed in the same corner will be in one group. However, if too many students remain in the same corner, the teacher can split that large group into smaller groups, each focused on the same topic. 5. Once the students have formed their groups. Give the following task card for each group: TASK CARD 1: Bullying: Recognize, Stop, and Replace with Friendship 1. As a group, interview classmates or teachers about bullying experiences. 2. Create posters or skits that teach how to stand up to bullying using Filipino values like pakikipagkapwa and paggalang.

TASK CARD 2: How are you? Working Together for Mental Wellness

1. As a group, research about how mental health is viewed in your barangay or family.
2. Create a video or posters debunking mental health myths; for example, it is not true that sadness means weakness.
3. Organize a “Kumustaha Day” where your classmates check in with each other and share stress-relief tips.

TASK CARD 3: Voices of the Indigenous: Speaking Out Against Displacement

1. As a group, discuss about a tribe in your community / locality that has been displaced due to mining.
2. Show a documentary or video about indigenous groups affected by mining.
3. Then make a spoken word poetry or rap on how you can help support these tribes.
3. Present these in front of the class.

TASK CARD 4: Speak Right: Empowering Learners through Proper English

1. As a group, brainstorm on the importance of proper English in education and the workplace.
2. Make an informative poster with English tips.
3. Discuss your poster and post it in a conspicuous area in the class.
etc.

TASK CARD 5: More than Grades: Promoting Balance and Holistic Growth

1. As a group, survey classmates on “What causes school stress?” and “What helps them stay calm and happy?”
2. Create a visual art or slogans that celebrate talents beyond academic (sports, arts, singing, etc.).
3. Host a mini-showcase of student talents that do not involve grades (singing, storytelling, drawing, etc).

6. The date and venue for the presentations will be on a date agreed by the class.

7. During the presentation, while other groups are doing the advocacy campaign other groups will act as observers and vice versa.
8. Below is a checklist that students can use.
9. At the end of all the presentations, ask some students to share their observations to the whole class.
10. Process the activity by asking learners on what worked well and what didn't during the presentations.

For the Learner:

Directions: Observe carefully the presentation of the group. Use the Checklist below to assess the performance of the group.

Criteria	Observed or Not Observed	Comments
1. The main idea or goal of the advocacy campaign is clear and easy to understand.
2. The campaign addresses a current and meaningful social issue.
3. The words used are respectful, inclusive, and powerful.
4. The presentation or delivery keeps the audience interested and involved.
5. The speaker is clear, confident, and well-prepared.
6. Advocacy materials are clear and aligned with the advocacy goal.
7. The advocacy materials are visually appealing (color, images, and graphics)
Additional Comments / Suggestions:

As an assignment for the students:

Ask them to write a coherent argumentative Construct coherent arguments or narratives that reflect social responsibility, diversity, and shared values based on the topic assigned to them during the advocacy campaign.

Below is the rubric to be used.

Criteria	3 Excellent	2 Satisfactory	1 Needs Improvement
Clear and Coherent Argument	Clearly states a position and supports it with strong, logical reasoning	States a position but has weak or unclear support	Position is unclear or missing; lacks logical support
Social Responsibility	Shows strong awareness of social issues and offers thoughtful, responsible ideas.	Mentions social issues but ideas are general or somewhat vague.	Shows little awareness of social issues or responsibility.
Respect for Diversity	Recognizes and respects different views, cultures, or identities.	Mentions diversity but lacks depth or specific examples.	Shows little or no consideration of diversity.
Shared Responsibility / Community Awareness	Highlights the importance of working together or community action.	Mentions teamwork or community but not clearly developed.	Lacks mention of shared responsibility or group effort.

Note to the Teacher: After doing the activity, were the learners able to identify perform the activity employing effective communication? If yes, then you can proceed to the next activity, if not you may add another activity for the student to learn the skill.

Option 2. Role Play

1. Group the class into six. Let them choose one of the following situations:

- Friends meet at a coffee shop,
- Meeting a friend from another country
- Asking permission from a School Head to conduct research

Note to the Teacher: You may use illustrations or images to make the it more exciting. You may also add more situations based on the class size.

2. Students in groups role-play a scenario related to the scenario they have chosen.
3. Give students time to practice and present.
4. Give feedback on each group presentation using emoticons: Double Thumbs Up, Thumbs Up, or Thumbs Down
5. Process the activity by asking learners to make a reflection of their performance during the activity with the following guide questions:
 - What was my role in your advocacy camping, and how well did you do your part?
 - What skills did you use or improve while working on the campaign (like speaking, listening, etc...)
 - If you could do something better next time, what would it be, and why?

2. Making Generalization

Revisiting the Anticipation Guide

Allow the students to revisit their Anticipation Guide and answer the “After” column.

SITUATIONS	AFTER
1. James greets a visiting guest from another country with a thumbs up and a wink thinking it's a friendly gesture.
2. During a group presentation, Ana listens carefully to each speaker and nods even if she disagrees to show respect.
3. When Maya notices that her classmate does not maintain eye contact, she adjusts her expectations instead of assuming rudeness.
4. During a group discussion, Carl interrupts Josh to make her point more quickly.
5. JC shares a joke during a serious conversation to lighten the mood.
6. During a conflict, Ben chooses to listen carefully instead of reacting right away.
7. In a group project, team members from different cultures avoid giving critical feedback to avoid offending others.

8. Mario speaks directly and firmly to an elder believing honesty is always the best policy.

Process the activity by asking these questions:

- Which of your initial responses changed after the discussion of the topic? What made you change your mind?
- How did your experiences in the different activities change or confirm your understanding of what makes communication effective?

2. Evaluating Learning

Option 1. Final Word Protocol

1. Let the class reread the short excerpt from a speech text on a social issue.

An Excerpt from the speech of Nelson Mandela during his Inaugural Speech as President of South Africa on May 10, 1994.

“Today, all of us, by our presence here and by our celebration in other parts of our country and the world, confer glory and hope to newborn liberty. Out of the experience of an extraordinary human disaster that lasted too long, a society of which all humanity will be proud. Our daily deeds as ordinary South Africans must produce an actual South African reality that will reinforce humanity’s belief in justice, strengthen its confidence in the nobility of the human soul, and sustain all our hopes for a glorious life for all.

We still understand that there is no easy road to freedom. We know it well that none of us acting alone can achieve success. We must therefore act together as a united people, for national reconciliation, for nation-building, for the birth of a new world. Let there be justice for all. Let there be peace for all. Let there be work, bread, water, and salt for all.”

Source: “Inaugural Speech, Pretoria [Mandela-5/19/94,”n.d.

2. Divide the class into groups with 6-8 members each. Let them form a small circle. Each student counts number 1 – 8.
3. The first student in the group reads aloud the line or phrase from the text that struck him/her the most and explains why he/she chose it.
4. Then Student No. 2 responds to the answer of Student 1 – either agreeing, disagreeing, or offering further thoughts.
5. Then student No. 3 responds to the answer of Student No. 1 – either agreeing, disagreeing, or offering further thoughts.
6. The process continues until the last student takes his turn in agreeing, disagreeing, or offering further thoughts.
7. Then Student 1 gets the “Final Word”. He/she responds to what was said by the other members, possibly rethinking or reaffirming their point.
8. Then Student No. 2 chooses again a line or phrase from the text that struck him/her the most and explains it.
9. Then Student No. 3 responds to the answer of Student No. 2 either agreeing, disagreeing, or offering further thoughts.
10. Repeat the process until everyone has had a turn.

Note to the Teacher: After doing the activity, were the learners able to identify and perform the activity employing effective communication? If yes, then you can proceed to the next activity, if not you may add another activity for the student to learn the skill.

Option 2. Hot Potato

1. Divide the class into six groups.
 2. Teacher prepares some questions related to the topic on social and intercultural communication.
- Sample:
- What does effective communication mean to you?
 - Why is it important to understand cultural differences when communicating?
 - What is one nonverbal cue that might have different meanings in different cultures?
 - How can language barriers affect communication between people from different cultures?
 - How can assumptions about a person’s background affect communication?
3. Students in circles pass a “hot potato” (represented by a physical thing like a ball) while music plays, and students pass the ball around.
 4. When the music stops, the student holding the potato answers the question.
 5. Repeat the process with the different question prompts.

4. Additional Activities

Option 1. Podcast Interview

Instruct learners to interview any of the following: purok leader, elder, older siblings, or cultural bearers for podcasts.

Questions:

- When you were growing up, what were the common expectations for boys and girls in your family or community?
- Do you think gender roles have changed over time? In what ways?
- What are some stereotypes about men and women that you believe are unfair and true?

Option 2: Broken Dialogues

Instructions:

1. Put students in small groups.
2. Give each group a short, problematic dialogue that shows poor communication.
3. Let the students identify what went wrong in the conversation below:

Dialogue 1

Student A: "You're always wrong! I told you it was due yesterday."

Student B: "Well maybe if you were so bossy all the time!"

Student A: "Whatever, I'll just do it myself because you can't handle it."

Dialogue 2

Student A: "Hi".

Student B: "What?"

Student A: "Nothing."

Student B: "Cool."

Student A: "Yeah."

4. Instruct students to rewrite it using better communication.
5. Give enough time for students to practice and perform both the original and the improved version.
6. Use the rubric below to assess the output of the learners.
7. Process the output using the following questions below:
 - What went wrong in the original conversation?
 - What did you change in your improved version of the dialogue?
 - What have you learned from the activity and how can you apply it in real life?

Rubric for Broken Dialogues

Criteria	Excellent (3)	Good (2)	Needs Improvement (1)
Improved Dialogue	Dialogue was clearly improved and sounded respectful	Dialogue was somewhat improved but could be clearer	Dialogue had little or no improvement
Delivery	Lines were spoken clearly with appropriate tone	Lines were somewhat clear; needs to improve the tone	Lines were unclear or spoken with inappropriate tone
Understanding the Issue	Clearly showed what went wrong in the conversation and how to fix it	Noticed the main issue and fixed most of it	Didn't really show understanding of the problem

V. ASSESSMENT

(Assessing Learnings)

Performance Task - Forum

Theme: Together We Can: Caring for Self, Others, and Our Community

1. Use the same groupings during the Advocacy Campaign activity.
2. Let the groups choose two members to act as facilitators during the Forum.
3. Each group will be given 20 minutes or depending on what has been agreed with the class.
4. Topics should be related to the topic that the group did during the Advocacy Campaign.

Examples:

- Despite awareness campaigns, bullying remains a serious problem in schools
- Mental health issues among students are increasing yet many remain undiagnosed or untreated
- Young people are more aware of environmental issues, but change is still slow
- The use of illegal substances among teens remains a concern for families and schools
- Students often feel overwhelmed by academic expectations and competitions

5. Prior to the activity also, discuss with the students some key points to remember when participating in a forum.

Purpose: The purpose of the activity is to deepen understanding of a topic through respectful and meaningful communication.

Prepare Your Ideas

- Research on the assigned topic.
- Prepare key points or questions about the topic you would like to share.
- Be ready to support your views with examples or reasons.

Norms

- Raise your hand if you would like to speak.
- Wait for the facilitator to recognize you.
- Speak clearly and stick to the topic.

Use Effective Communication Skills

- Listen actively – do not interrupt when someone is talking.
- Acknowledge others' points before presenting your own.
- Maintain eye-to-eye contact and use appropriate gestures.
- Avoid dominating the discussion – give others a chance to speak.

Flow of the Forum per group (suggestion only)

- Facilitator opens the discussion (2 minutes)
- Discussion (10 minutes)

- Question – Answer (5 minutes)
- Facilitator wraps up (3 minutes)

6. Use the analytic rubric below. It is also good if the rubric is decided by the whole class.

Criteria	4 Excellent	3 Proficient	2 Developing	1 Beginning
Clarity of Expression	Ideas are consistently clear, well-structured and easy to follow.	Ideas are most clear and organized with minor lapses.	Ideas lack clarity or logical structure at times.	Ideas are unclear, disorganized, or hard to follow.
Use of Appropriate Language and Tone	Uses respectful, suitable tone and vocabulary for the audience and purpose.	Generally uses appropriate tone and language with minor issues.	Occasionally uses unsuitable or vague language or tone.	Rarely listens; responses show little connection to others' ideas.
Listening and Responding	Listens attentively and responds thoughtfully, building on others' ideas.	Listens and responds appropriately most of the time.	Inconsistent listening; responses are sometimes off-topic or unrelated.	Rarely listens; responses show little connection to others' ideas.
Collaboration and Respect	Engages others respectfully; encourages participation and values all viewpoints.	Respectful and cooperative in discussion with minor lapses.	Sometimes lacks respect or interrupts others.	Rarely cooperative; may be disrespectful or disruptive.
Non-verbal communication (eye contact, gesture, posture)	Uses confident and appropriate non-verbal cues to support communication.	Uses some effective non-verbal cues; may lack consistency.	Uses limited or distracting non-verbal cues.	Rarely uses effective non-verbal cues; may distract others.

7. After the activity, provide each student a Reflection Journal allowing them to reflect on their participation during the forum.

What do you think are your strengths?

	What communication skills do you want to improve for the next time?
VI. REFLECTION (Feedback and Continuous Improvement)	Reflection Questions for Teachers: • Did my students learn what they intend to learn? • How many achieved mastery? • Which of my teaching strategies worked well? Which didn't work? • What difficulties did I encounter in the delivery of the lesson?
