Activity No. 3 Recreation Revolution: Your Blueprint for Community Fun

I. Objective:

Students will apply their knowledge of types of recreation and rhythmic activities by planning a community event that includes both active/passive and rhythmic activities, considering indoor/outdoor settings and social benefits.

II. Materials:

Scenario handout (see below)
Paper and pens or digital devices for planning
Optional: props or visuals for presentations

Scenario:

“Your community center wants to organize a “Fun and Healthy Day” event to promote physical activity, relaxation, and social interaction among residents of all ages. Your group has been tasked to design the event program, including a variety of recreational and rhythmic activities.”

III. Instructions

1. Form groups of 4-5 students.
2. Analyze the scenario:
 - ✓ Identify different types of recreation (active/passive, indoor/outdoor) to include.
 - ✓ Choose rhythmic activities from the categories: fundamental, creative, dramatic, structured dance, and aerobic dance.
3. Plan the event program:
 - ✓ List at least 3 active and 3 passive recreation activities.
 - ✓ Include at least 2 rhythmic activities, specifying their type and why they are suitable.
 - ✓ Decide which activities will be indoors and which outdoors.
 - ✓ Consider the social and physical benefits of each activity.
4. Prepare a brief presentation:
 - ✓ Explain your choices and how the event promotes health, social skills, and enjoyment.
5. Present to the class:
 - ✓ Share your event plan and answer questions from peers.
